

Marriage Market

Season 1

Marriage Market is a bold dating experiment where 100 singles ready for commitment hand over control of their love lives to the people who know them best: their families.
Hosted by Whitney Cummings, the series takes place in a real-world “Marriage Market,” where families meet, negotiate, and choose matches on behalf of their loved ones—leading to instant engagements.
Couples and their families then move in together to test compatibility under one roof, with the power to move toward marriage or return to the market at any time.
Fast, emotional, and unpredictable, Marriage Market asks whether family knows best when it comes to finding forever.
