A Search That Found Hope

"Anir" is a young man from Morocco. When Anir was a Muslim, he sincerely loved God. He genuinely believed he was worshiping the true God and that his life had a clear purpose.

However, after a long journey of reading and investigation, Anir concluded that Islam was not what he had once believed it to be. It was one of the most difficult moments of his life.

So he began a search for truth. He read about different religions and philosophies, trying to approach each one fairly. Anir started reading the Bible seriously for the first time. He said,

"What captivated me most was the person of Jesus Christ. His words were unlike anything I've ever read before."

Anir did not see merely a moral teacher, but someone who called people to love their enemies, forgive, show humility, and live with compassion.

He sensed genuine hope. For the first time, Anir felt that God was close—that He cares for humanity and actively seeks us.

One day, he found our Arabic outreach website and connected with "Elias," a digital responder and local Pioneers worker. They discussed many aspects of the Christian faith.

Anir discovered that faith means having sufficient reason to trust God while continuing to seek deeper understanding.

The emptiness that had haunted Anir for so long has been satisfied in Jesus.

Anir just made a decision to follow Jesus!

Right now, the Arab World Media team is working to connect him with local believers in his area so he can begin discipleship.

Unchained

Through generous partners like you, we can engage some of the hardest-to-reach people groups in the Arab world. Anir lives in Morocco, where local believers make up less than 0.1% of the population.

Many more people like Anir are actively using smartphones to search for spiritual answers online.

Two years ago, Arab World Media launched our three year goal to engage the five least-reached Arab nations with the gospel. This focused effort is beginning to make inroads. ‘

Anir is one example, but we are seeing many more people are searching and waiting for someone to walk with them toward Jesus.

In 2027, we remain committed to reaching these least-reached nations. And we need partners like you to co-labor with us.

Alongside this, we actively engage seekers across other Arab nations such as Egypt, empower Arab women through specialized trauma-healing content and online communities, and reach the Amazigh peoples of North Africa through tailored media and online fellowship.

God has put 2 Timothy 2:9b-10 on our hearts.

"But God's word is not chained. Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, that they too may obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus, with eternal glory."

Despite circumstances, obstacles or roadblocks, God's Word will continue to go out unchained, and He will continue to save lost souls.

Five Unreached Nations

Morocco, Algeria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Yemen represent nearly 200 million people who have little to no access to the message of Jesus. Each country presents a distinct barrier—and a specific opportunity for digital ministry.

I. Morrocco

Nearly 40 million people live in Morocco, where strong social pressure makes open conversion dangerous. Most Moroccans have little opportunity to speak with a local believer, but many use their phones to search privately for spiritual answers. Digital outreach allows our team to share Scripture, respond to difficult questions and connect new believers like Anir with discipleship and trusted local networks.

II. Algeria

Although the church has grown in parts of the Amazigh region, Algeria's nationwide evangelical presence remains well below 0.1%. Forced church closures leave many seekers without physical fellowship, but digital ministry can create online communities where believers pray, worship and grow. Even more encouraging, members are starting their own groups.

III. Iraq

Decades of conflict and cultural separation have kept Iraq's traditional Christian communities largely disconnected from the Muslim majority. Yet openness is growing, particularly among Shia Muslims and Islamic scholars. During the past 12 months, more than 100 Iraqis have come to faith in Jesus through digital conversations that lead to personal discipleship and local connections.

IV. Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia is one of the world's most closed nations, with virtually no physical Christian presence available to its citizens. Yet Saudis are among the world's highest consumers of social media per capita. Digital outreach gives them a secure, confidential setting where they can ask honest questions, study the Bible through mobile apps and discover Jesus safely.

V. Yemen

War, displacement and humanitarian crisis have made traditional ministry extremely difficult in Yemen. For many people, digital outreach is the only practical way to explore faith or speak with a Christian. During the past year, more than 2,500 Yemenis have contacted our team to learn more about Jesus and receive personal guidance.

"I am simply a person who searched for meaning, and after years of confusion and doubt, I found a hope that restored the peace I had been missing."

— "Anir" in Morocco

Across all five nations, the need is the same: a secure first contact, a thoughtful response, and a faithful path into discipleship and community.
