HOW AND WHEN to PUT YOUR PLAN INTO ACTION

Get evac-ready on Weather Watch and Warning days so, you'll be ready if conditions change suddenly.

ANIMAL PREP STEPS

1. Make sure all animals are microchipped and have visible ID.
2. When you're preparing to evacuate, (or go on vacation or to the vet!), put pets in a secure, quiet place, (bathroom, laundry room, etc.), where they can be caught easily, and can't escape during your prep.
3. Put nervous or timid pets in their carrier with water, and cover with a sheet or towel while you prepare to go. Give toys or treats to distract them.
4. Consider using a calming product or medication if your vet has advised it.
5. Put animal go-kits, and yours, in your car or near your door.
6. Check in with your Buddy network and neighbors.
7. Decide where you're going and confirm arrangements or reservations.
8. Post a sign in a window or on a door about animals who may be at home.
9. Hide a key.

If you are evacuating: Don't forget your pet! Before you leave, STOP, BREATHE, REVIEW YOUR CHECKLIST, look around. Pets are often left waiting in their carriers.

When to PREP

- Weather WATCH: Practice and prep.
- Weather WARNING: Load go-bags, prep animals, confirm destinations, leave.

When to GO

- Be ready to go BEFORE you get an Evac Warning.
- A Red Flag, Flash Flood Warning, or other severe weather

EVACUATION ALERTS

- WARNING: Danger is near. DO NOT WAIT – Leave now!
- Evac ORDER: You're in immediate danger. GO NOW!
If you can't leave safely call 911.

- ✓ Have a Weather Watch routine and practice with animals and helpers.
- ✓ Practicing can reduce stress! Practice in all kinds of conditions, and with your buddies and their animals.
- ✓ Practice loading pets into car, carriers, and walking on leash or harness.
- ✓ Can you get out of the house with your animals safely and quickly?
- ✓ Practice with your cane or walker, and with a buddy.
- ✓ Make plans together with your animal helpers and buddy network.

- ✓ Use Situational Awareness every day: Look Up! Look down! Look all around!
- ✓ Be the calm leader of your pack, flock, and neighborhood.

Where To Get Info

- Local Emergency Alerts
- Local AM/FM radio, TV
- NOAA radio
- Official Agency posts on social media: Sheriff, Police, Fire, Emergency Services, Animal Services

Reunification Tips

- Microchip your pets, make sure registration is current.
- Add your contact info and name of your apartment complex or facility to your pet ID and carrier.
- Take photos of you with your animals.
- Record a video of their voice and/or special traits.

ANIMALS SHELTERED-IN-PLACE

When you can't evacuate your animals or you're sheltering in place with them.

You may need to evacuate yourself and leave your animals at home.

Or you may have to shelter-in-place at home with your animals after a storm, earthquake, during an extended power outage, or another emergency.

To prepare to keep your animals, and yourself, safe and well, it is important to have enough of the right supplies.

How Much Do You Need?

- Enough safe drinking water for at least one month.
- Water for hygiene.
- The goal is to have enough food, medications, sanitation, toys and treats for one month.
- PLUS, an extra dose of parasite control for each animal, and extra food if your animal has special needs.
- Safe ways to secure your animals.

If you must leave pets at home, and you have time to do these things SAFELY:

- Leave extra bowls of water and dry food.
- Hide a key.
- Close doors and windows, leave windows unlocked.
- Leave toilet lid up (only if you do not use automatic bowl cleaners!)
- Leave your Animal Emergency Plan, pet food, and meds where responders can find them, but animals cannot get into them. Tip: The dryer is a great place, or under a BBQ lid.

TIPS

- Form a buying group with neighbors or your evac buddies to purchase essentials in quantity.
- Identify locations for shared storage of large or bulky items, like food and kitty litter.
- Refresh or rotate supplies twice a year. A good time to do this is when the time changes.

IF YOU CANNOT EVACUATE YOUR ANIMALS

Don't spend precious minutes searching for your pet or trying to find your catch your animals. If you can't evacuate your pet for any reason, stay calm, breathe, and get yourself to safety.

- If you receive an Evacuation ORDER, and you or a nearby evac buddy are unable to take your animals, you can call the Animal Helpline number to request care for your animals.
- You, or an evac buddy, must make the call to request Animal Services.
- Keep the numbers for your area in your Emergency Plan, or your phone, and in a notebook where you can find them quickly. (See the yellow box below.)
- You can ask for a Home Care Check or evacuation. Animal Services and trained responders will do their best to check on your animals, evacuate them if necessary, and provide care until you are able to return home.
- Veterinary care may be provided for animals who are injured, sick, or have special needs.

- * Many essential oils are toxic to pets.
- * When using alcohol, bleach or hydrogen peroxide products, MUST allow to air-dry COMPLETELY before pet use.
- * Put newspapers under pee pads for extra cushion and easier cleanup.

Pet Carrier, Crate, and Car Safety

- ✓ Cats, small dogs, birds, reptiles and pocket pets should be secured in appropriate carriers or cages.
- ✓ Make sure carriers are secure. Check clips and bolts and add zipties where possible.
- ✓ Make sure pets cannot jump out of car windows or doors.
- ✓ Crates should be large enough for animals to stand up, lay down, and turn around.
- ✓ Covering pet carrier or crate will help them feel calmer and safer.
- ✓ Keep pets cool: ice packs, cooling pad, water spritz.
- ✓ Put your name, number, and address or your facility's name on the carrier.

These are the times to practice your plan with pets, family, neighbors, and your pet buddy network of helpers and destinations.

BONUS: If you're prepared for a natural disaster, you'll be ready in case of personal emergencies, too!

It might take many hours, or even a few days, for roads to open, and much longer for water & power to be restored. Be prepared to be self-sufficient and able to care for yourself and your animals.

BEFORE

- Do a “hazard hunt” around your home to make sure it is safe during an earthquake for you and your animals.
- Store supplies where you will be able to safely get to them after an earthquake.
- Secure fish tanks and terrariums on low sturdy table or base.

DURING

Don't try to hold on to your pets.

AFTER – if you can do so safely...

- Sweep the floor and wipe up or cover spills.
- Talk to your pet calmly: it will help them, and you, too.
- Put food and water down for pets.
- Confine your pet in a room or crate.
- Put harness or collar, leash.
- Turn on a radio to listen for alerts.
- If you smell gas or hear hissing, get out immediately.
- If you go outdoors, be aware of down power lines. Stay 50' away.

If you are in a Tsunami Zone – If you get a tsunami alert leave immediately. Do not leave animals confined.

WHAT OTHER EMERGENCIES SHOULD I PLAN FOR?

- Extended power outages: Will you have water? You will need to keep yourself and your pet cool – or warm – and comfortable.
- “Boil Water” Alert: Water safety applies to animals as well as humans. Have bottled water, unscented bleach and water purification tablets in your emergency supplies. (If you have power source, you cannot safely boil water).
- You are sick or injured and unable to take care of your animals.

Caregiver Guidelines & Resources for PEOPLE with PETS (And Large Animals, too!)

This Tip Sheet is for caregivers of people with pets and large animals. More detailed information and checklists are in the HALTER Project Disaster Preparedness Workbook for Pets and the Animal Disaster Action Plan Workbook.

When pet owners are unable to care for their pets due to illness or other life changes, it's important to have plans in place to ease stress.

Plan Ahead

The best plan is for someone who knows the pet to provide care, such as a friend, relative, or neighbor. Discuss emergency plans for pets with family and client. Put them in writing. Update info as needed.

Recommended actions for Owners, if possible:

- Reserve funds for pet care
- Get Pet Health Insurance
- Include a plan end of life care.

Use the forms in this Packet for:

- Animal Emergency Plan
- Pet Description Info Form
- Advance Veterinary Care Directive

Plans should also be made for longterm care, or permanent adoption, in case the owner is no longer able to have pets or passes away.

Plan for personal emergencies that can impact a pet owner's ability to care for animals.

- Work with your client or family members to make an emergency plan for their animals before it's needed.
- Keep a list of reliable people who can care for the pet.
- Keep all Pet Emergency information ready in case a disaster, sudden illness, or other life change.
- Find out what local agencies and organizations provide resources or help for pet owners who are seniors or have special needs. Keep a list of resources, such as:
 - Pet's veterinarian
 - Local SPCA or Humane Society
 - Local Animal Care & Control
 - Local Pet Rescue groups
 - Organizations with a Pet Safety Network

Pet Supplies Checklist for Disaster and Personal Emergency

In case the owner and pet are evacuated, or the owner is unable to care for the pet.

(See the detailed list in this packet.)

Important items:

- Go-Bag with pet care needs and toys.
- Extra collar with an ID tag, a leash or harness.
- If possible, a minimum of 1-2 weeks of pet food and water in rodent-proof container.
- Favorite kitty litter for cats.
- Secure carrier for cats & small dogs with ID info attached.
- 2-5 Contacts for people who can care for pets for several weeks or months.
- Names and contacts of people who will adopt pets.

What To Do

In a Personal Emergency

1. Call pet care contacts.
2. If you have to leave animals at home put the animal in a secure place, and leave water, a small amount of food, a litter box, and pee pads, if needed.
3. Call local Animal Services or 911 if nobody is able to care for the pet within 12 hours.

In a Disaster

Plan for natural disasters that require evacuation or sheltering in place. Leave ASAP if you receive a SEVERE WEATHER ALERT or EVACUATION WARNING.

If you receive a GO NOW Evacuation Order and client cannot take the animals, do these things, if possible:

1. Call pet helpers who live in the same evacuation zone to see if they can take the pet.
2. If no helpers are available, call Animal Services / Animal Control to request care for animals inside the Evacuated Zone.

You can also call 2-1-1 to request information about animal assistance.

3. Call Animal Services every day until the Evacuation Order is lifted to continue animal care to request continued animal care.

When the Evac Order is lifted the pet owner or caregiver will be responsible for animal care.

Where Can I Take Pets If I Have to Evacuate?

You should try to have several options for places where Owner and pets can go and stay together.

1. Pet-friendly motels & vacation rentals. Make sure they accept your type of pet. Try websites specializing in pet-friendly accommodations.
2. Emergency Shelters identified in Emergency Alerts and Information. Call 2-1-1 may have information.

Veterinary & End-of-Life Care Directive

Make a written plan for pet End-of-Life care and instructions for cremation and disposition of pet remains.

Pet owners should include their instructions for their pet's veterinary and End-of-Life care in an Advance Animal Care Directive and in their own legal document. If no prior arrangements have been made, local Animal Welfare agencies and organizations may be able to help.

Some communities have organizations that can help foster or re-home a pet when the owner is unable to care for it. To get help, contact your local Pet Rescue organizations, local Humane Society, or Animal Services.

Some veterinarians offer compassionate fee structures for End-of-Life pet care.

If an animal has special needs, is elderly, or in poor health, euthanization may be more humane and less stressful for the owner, family, and caregivers to arrange for the pet, rather than re-homing or foster care.

and Animal Sitters
