GET TO KNOW DR. CHAKKA

Dr. Chakka, a native of India, brings a wealth of diverse perspectives to her medical practice in Ohio. Her journey and experiences have profoundly shaped her empathetic approach to patient care, which she now applies to serve the Ohio community. She has made Ohio her home and enjoys teaching residents and medical students. She emphasizes critical thinking, active learning and fostering a supportive and inclusive environment. Dr. Chakka is passionate about simplifying complex medical topics into clear and practical teaching points for resident board preparation.

GET TO KNOW DR. CUDNIK

Dr. Cudnik received her degree from Ohio Northern University and is a Board-Certified Ambulatory Care Pharmacist. She has been at Summa for nearly 20 years where she practices in the Internal Medicine Residency Clinic under a Collaborative Practice Agreement. She has many years of teaching experience, both at Northeast Ohio Medical University (NEOMED) and at Summa as the PGY2 Ambulatory Care Pharmacy Residency Program Director. Her clinical practice focuses on chronic disease management, with a focus in diabetes management. She enjoys working with physicians on medication reconciliation, quality improvement metrics and enhancing medication access for patients. Dr. Cudnik is always available to assist with medication-related questions and to mentor learners.

KAMAL DAYAL, MD

DIRECTOR, INTERNAL MEDICINE CENTER · CORE FACULTY

GET TO KNOW DR. DAYAL

Internal Medicine
Residency

Dr. Dayal grew up in Gallipolis, Ohio, a town on the Ohio/West Virginia border. During his fourth year of medical school, he did a rotation at Summa and appreciated the culture of patient-centered care, respect for learners, team collaboration, and emphasis on wellness. After his residency at Summa, Dr. Dayal joined the faculty and enjoys seeing patients, didactic teaching, precepting in the clinic, and rounding on the med teams. He welcomes anyone stopping by his office to discuss patient care, career advising, or just to vent about the latest Cleveland sports drama! As medical director of the Internal Medicine Center (the outpatient residency clinic), he works with a talented group of hard-working providers and staff who train residents in all aspects of outpatient medicine and provide the best possible care to the patients of the Akron community.

GET TO KNOW DR. DENTLER

Dr. Dentler was born and raised in Canton, OH. His road to medicine began at John Carroll University in Cleveland, OH, when he was accepted into medical school at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine as an undergraduate freshman. After completing medical school, he returned to Northeast Ohio to complete his residency and chief residency at Summa. He then completed a pulmonary and critical care medicine fellowship at the University of Rochester in Rochester, New York. Dr. Dentler practiced pulmonary and critical care medicine for approximately 10 years in both Northeast Ohio and Indiana before deciding to return to general internal medicine and graduate medical education. He is now a core faculty member and hospitalist with the Summa's Internal Medicine Residency. He lives in the Canton area with his wife and two daughters. Residents are welcome to use him as a resource for clinical care issues in hospital medicine, pulmonology, and critical care medicine, as well as for guidance when considering fellowships and employment opportunities.

GET TO KNOW DR. MOORE

Dr. Moore was born and raised in Mansfield, Ohio, and completed his undergraduate studies at Malone University before earning his medical degree at NEOMED. He rotated at Summa as a clerkship student and was drawn to the hospital, residency program, and academic environment, ultimately completing his Internal Medicine residency and serving as Chief Resident. He then spent nine years as Clerkship Director, mentoring and recruiting medical students, before becoming Program Director in July 2023. He is passionate about working with both students and residents, loves being on the wards and in clinic with learners and finds great joy in seeing them reach their full potential. Residents can come to him for mentorship, career advice, and clinical pearls, particularly in inpatient and outpatient medicine as well as point-of-care ultrasound.

Dr. Myers is originally from a small farming town in NW Ohio, completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Notre Dame, graduated from the Ohio State University College of Medicine, and did his Internal Medicine training at OhioHealth Riverside Methodist Hospital, and completed Infectious Disease training at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine and Medical Center. His career took him from the University of Michigan Medical Center (1980-1981) to Youngstown Hospital Association (1981-1985) and then to Akron holding ID positions at St. Thomas Medical Center (1985-1987), Akron General (1987-1996), and then to Summa Health where Dr. Myers has held various positions since 1996. He is interested in mentorship through partnership in providing guidance for abstract writing, poster and oral presentation assembly, and manuscript preparation and review. Dr. Myers also loves anything ID – He says he hasn't had a boring week in his life in ID since 1978! Dr. Myers also enjoys providing curbside consultation in cases that require detailed ID guidance.

Dr. Myers (he/him) enjoys the “toybox of adult life”—sports—along with spending time with his wife, their dog, and his favorite hobbies: reading history, learning new computer skills, and woodworking. His four children are spread across the Eastern U.S. (Pittsburgh, PA; Chatham, NJ; Cambridge, MA; and Elizabeth City, NC), and he is a proud grandfather of five. Now partially retired, he also takes pride in his famously nicknamed office—“Betty’s Office”—in honor of long-time administrative assistant Betty, who supported several department chairs over the years. Visitors can find it by following the hall display of chocolate products (and, by popular demand, caramel cremes).

Dr. Rich was nicknamed "Conan the Librarian" in college for splitting his time between the weight room and the library. An avid collector of antiquarian maps, books, sports cards, coins, and stamps, he proudly maintains his collection in a meticulously organized, climate-controlled space—much to the playful protest of his wife, who calls him a hoarder. His four children affectionately tease him about his passion for genealogy, citing it as further evidence of his "nerd" status. A lifelong Cleveland Browns fan, Dr. Rich was born in 1964, the same year the team last won a championship—a connection he leaves open to interpretation.

As the daughter of Dr. James S. Tan, Stephanie Tan has been lurking the halls of Summa Health System since her childhood when it was called Akron City Hospital. As a teen, she spent every weekend working in the Infectious Research Lab, where she measured antibiotic levels and learned to ignore the smell of Klebsiella. She also grew up creating graphics and editing her father's research submissions. After studying art history in college and graduate school, she returned to Northeast Ohio to pursue a career in medicine and teaching. She has spent her entire medical career at Summa. Given her nontraditional background, she is skilled at visual and physical diagnosis, writing and editing, and creative problem-solving.

LIFE OUTSIDE OF SUMMA

- I met my husband (Gary Pinta) in medical school, and we have three adult children who never had any interest in becoming doctors. Subsequently, our current life involves a lot of traveling to Columbus (where my son is a lawyer), San Francisco (where my younger daughter is a marketing coordinator for Fenty Cosmetics) and Los Angeles (where my older daughter is in film school). When my husband isn't dragging me to Browns, Guardians or Cavs games, I'm usually at home cooking, working in the garden, doing something creative, completing menial tasks or trying to beat my sister's Duolingo score. But my favorite things to do are outside, and we are lucky to be close to great parks for walking and Lake Erie for boating.

- With some friends, I started the recycling program at the College of Wooster. So yes, I am that person who always has a reusable bag and composts her kitchen and yard waste.

- I love animals, but I am allergic to everything. My only "grandchildren" thus far have fur and I have a permanent babysitting gig for one cat. If you hear someone coughing or sneezing in the IMC, it is probably me.

She oversees residents in both the outpatient clinic and on the inpatient teaching service. She serves as the Clerkship Director for the third-year medical students from Northeast Ohio Medical University and works closely with the fourth-year sub-interns. Her passions include direct observation, effective feedback, student and resident evaluations, clinical reasoning, and patient-centered care. She is always willing to talk through clinical questions, listen with empathy, or help think through tough decisions—often bringing her love of decision matrices into the process. Unique to her, she has a lifelong love of math and spicy foods, and she is deaf in her right ear. Outside of medicine, she treasures time with her family and enjoys anything to do with cats, foxes, or red pandas.

LIFE OUTSIDE OF SUMMA

Outside of work, Dr. Tatar enjoys spending time outdoors with her husband and son, whether fishing, hiking, or simply exploring nature. You may catch her playing cards or board games with her family (including a game of "Uno" with her son for the 100th time) or relaxing at home with her three cats. A fan of bold flavors, she is often seeking out new spots to find spicy food paired with a delicious hazy IPA. She enjoys a good suspenseful audiobook while cleaning and exercising and is always looking for a new series on Netflix to binge. Dr. Tatar always gives her students and residents the disclaimers that she is not ignoring them but rather just deaf in her right ear, that she makes a lot of facial expressions, and that she often incorporates a good sentence-enhancer into her vocabulary.

GET TO KNOW DR. WOLFE

Internal Medicine
Residency

Dr. Wolfe was born and raised in Northeast Ohio and is the first physician in her family. She completed her residency at Summa Health. She served as Chief Resident following graduation and chose to stay on as faculty following her Chief year. She also brings the unique experience of having completed a Fellowship in Medical Simulation. This training reflects Dr. Wolfe's interest in medical education, mentoring, curriculum development, and the use of simulation as a training modality in medicine. Dr. Wolfe is happy for residents to come by her office for anything, so long as they also want to look at pictures of her Mini-Bernedoodle, Maisy.

LIFE OUTSIDE OF SUMMA

Dr. Wolfe enjoys traveling with friends or family, when she can find someone to dog-sit her pup Maisy. When she is at home in Ohio she likes to bake and take Maisy on walks if the weather is nice. If the weather isn't amenable to walks, she also enjoys playing video games or reading, especially things in the fantasy genre, let her know if you have recommendations!

GET TO KNOW DR. ZAUGG

Dr. Zaugg is a proud Northeast Ohio transplant who found her professional home in the Summa Health System, where she has thrived for over 12 years. After falling in love with the system during her residency and chief residency, she now serves as Core Faculty for the Internal Medicine Residency and as the Program Director for the Transitional Year Residency. Her commitment to resident education and mentorship is unwavering, and she's passionate about shaping the future of medicine. In addition to raising her family with her spouse, Dr. Zaugg's spare time includes serving as Associate Program Director of Internal Medicine, Vice Chair of the Department of Medicine, and Chair of the Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee. She actively participates in advocacy by serving as a member of the Ohio ACP's Governor's Advisory Council. In her practice, Dr. Zaugg sees patients in both inpatient and outpatient settings, blending her clinical expertise with a patient-centered approach. Outside of the hospital, she's all about family adventures—whether that's hiking with her family, making her traditional Sunday night pizzas, or working in her garden.

LIFE OUTSIDE OF SUMMA

Outside of work, Dr. Zaugg spends much of her time chasing her two free-spirited kids, walking her fur babies in the woods, and experimenting with all the sourdough recipes she can find (her family's favorites include her homemade pizza dough and sourdough discard chocolate chip cookies). Dr. Zaugg dreams of the day she can hike the Appalachian Trail with her children.
