

QUIZ

"HAZARDOUS MATERIALS LABELING... DOT AND HAZARDOUS WASTE LABELS IN TRANSPORTATION AND WAREHOUSE ENVIRONMENTS"

Employee Name: _____ Training Date: _____

1. True or False? Container labels are one of the best sources of information regarding hazardous materials.
 True False
2. True or False? In-house chemical storage containers do not need warning labels.
 True False
3. True or False? The Department of Transportation has created labels and placards that must be used on materials that are being moved from one location to another.
 True False
4. True or False? The pictograms on DOT labels are identical to the pictograms used in the Globally Harmonized System.
 True False
5. True or False? The purpose of DOT's color-coded labeling system is to allow emergency responders to be able to tell what "Hazard Class" a material belongs to at a glance.
 True False
6. True or False? To avoid confusion, there can never be more than one color on a DOT hazardous materials label.
 True False
7. True or False? It is federal law that EPA-approved hazardous waste labels must be attached to all containers of discarded chemicals that can be hazardous to human health or the environment.
 True False
8. True or False? Before a hazardous waste label can be attached to a container, all other labels must be removed.
 True False
9. True or False? GHS labels must include the name of the hazardous material and associated hazard warnings
 True False
10. True or False? The Department of Transportation's hazardous materials labels are triangle shaped.
 True False