

Monthly Update: November 2025

PRGT crews will continue to conduct environmental field studies where conditions permit, including watercourse and wetland assessments, as well as wildlife habitat surveys. Engineering field studies, aerial overviews, and site visits are also expected to continue this month to support construction planning along the right-of-way.

Timber hauling activities that took place between August and October in the Nass Valley are now complete.