The Fly Series by Space Copenhagen is a lounge collection made up of two sofas, an armchair, two tables and a pouf. Pushing the idea of lounging to its fullest, Fly is a series that allows the user to sit, lie, rest, and relax. Unlike many of the sofas and easy chairs in Scandinavian design history, Fly does not impose any particular posture onto the sitter. The seat itself is optimised for comfort, with loose cushions for the back that can be arranged according to the user's own needs. But Fly adheres to tradition in other respects; the frame of the sofa and armchair, with a slatted back rest, is made from solid oak, treated with white pigmented oil or smoked oil. It is the type of material and treatment that ages with true grace, only becoming more beautiful with time.

& Space Copenhagen gathers much of their inspiration from travels abroad, often in the form of ambience and mood. An example could be as simple as a particular wall in the streets of SoHo, New York, the distressed look of which makes its way into Space Copenhagen's imagination.

As part of Space Copenhagen's Fly series, the Fly Table is the ideal companion to the Fly Sofa, Fly Chairs and Fly Poof.

Boasting an oiled oak base made from solid oak and oak veneer, the marble top is the perfect punctuation to a lovely low side table that doesn't impose its presence on your surroundings. The rounded corners add panache and personality to this little gem with an enduring appeal.

"Most people don't pay attention to side tables," admits &tradition Brand Manager Martin Kornbek Hansen. "But we were instantly attracted to the Fly Table's sculptural shape. The natural oak wood and the choice of marble for the top. It's contemporary yet timeless and elegant yet understated. A cohesive concept that's merges classic materials with modernity."
