

You have a business to run.

Let's make it better.

MATTERS

Providing the service industry with a resource to help them save time, money and energy.

The QC arm you never knew you needed

The Nerd Power Method

1. Script Generation

We sit down with you and get to know your business and how you interact with your customers to create an approved script. We are an extension of your company, with no funny business—only local Arizona-based calling and English speakers who record every call and have all scripts 100% approved by you. When you join our affiliate program, you're joining a team that wants nothing more than to help you succeed.

2. Customer Outreach

Nerd Execs know one thing, communication with customers is key to a happy, long term customer. As a part of this program we actively reach out, with your approved script to your customer base, on the frequency of your choice for a 'check in'. Communication and customer outreach is vital to a healthy business but often times gets lost in the shuffle. That's where we can help.

Protect your brand and build better relations

When you work with us, what you're getting is 50 years of combined experience in the service industry.

3. Energy Analysis

We want your company to be able to show gratitude for its customers—with a free energy consultation and follow up on their homes. Nerd Power has an approach that is unique by nature as we seek first to make a home more efficient and comfortable for a homeowner. We take a holistic approach to home efficiency, power production and consumption, all while saving the homeowner money and making you look good for suggesting it.

4. Presentation & Payout

As a part of our free in-home consultation, when your customer chooses to take advantage of our renewable energy packages, we compensate you. An additional revenue source directly to your bottom line is just that easy. We call your customer, relay your message, give your thanks, offer additional items, send them a link to leave a 5 star Google review AND when they choose to move forward with us, we send you unencumbered money to boost your profits.

Every business wishes they had a quality control arm, but many simply can't afford it. We're here to be an extension of your company, giving you the ability to listen to 100% of your customer calls—without having to pay for staff or infrastructure.
