Dimas joins Channel Diligence with more than 20 years of experience across fund accounting, finance, investment operations, and operational due diligence within the alternative investment industry.

Most recently, he served as Vice President of Operational Due Diligence at Morgan Stanley, where he evaluated and monitored alternative investment managers across a broad range of structures, including hedge funds, private equity, real estate, fund-of-funds, UCITS, and evergreen vehicles.

Prior to this role, Dimas spent more than 16 years at UBS, where he held several senior positions, including Director within Operational Due Diligence and Finance & Investment Operations. In his operational due diligence role, he led assessments of prospective investment managers and ongoing monitoring of existing relationships. In earlier roles within Finance & Investment Operations, he was responsible for product control and investment operations supporting fund-of-funds, fund-of-one, and separately managed account (SMA) mandates across a range of hedge fund strategies and private credit.

Earlier in his career, Dimas held positions at Highbridge Capital Management, Citigroup, and Rho Capital Partners, focusing on hedge fund accounting, fund oversight, and private equity accounting.

Dimas holds a Bachelor's degree in Accounting and Economics from Queens College, City University of New York.
