Advisory

Please make sure your child shows you their advisory checklist every Friday, completed the missing assignments, and brought both the signed advisory and completed work back to school. Students will receive their work advisory checklist every Friday and should bring it back signed by a parent with their work completed every Monday. Reach out to the Baiji teaching team with questions.

Cold Weather

We believe in the importance of students going outside for recess for fresh air, movement, and enjoying their final elementary recess days. We will go outside every day unless the feels like temperature is below 0 degrees. Students MUST have proper gear. This includes coat, hat, gloves, snow pants, and snow boots. If students do not have snow boots then they must stand on the blacktop only. Please ensure these things are coming to school every day and are labeled.

- There will be several book interest bins for students to choose from so they can find great reading books that interest them!
- A READO board will come home the first Tuesday in March where students complete fun reading activities and try to complete the board! Make sure to return your READO board to Miss Bauer.
- To culminate the month, March 27th is Read In Day and our Poetry Slam! Students can wear pajamas/comfy clothes, grab a book (or several!) and read for the day! Students will also have the opportunity to participate in the Poetry Slam where they stand up and read their favorite poem!

Thank you for supporting the CSA Team by complying to our dress code policy. This helps students focus on their academic and social development. With this, here are a few things that we are seeing that are not in compliance with the dress code. Please support us in ensuring your child follows all elements of the dress code policy daily.

- No uggs, shirts under polos, smartwatches, hair dye, and crew neck sweatshirts.
- Students should have a CSA embroidered sweater or cardigan that complies with the CSA dress code policy if they are cold.
- Do not hesitate to reach out with questions or concerns!

Character Corner

This month, students are focused on good sportsmanship. In our classroom, sportsmanship is about more than just playing fair in games—it's about showing respect, kindness, and teamwork in everything we do. Whether we're working on a group project, participating in a class activity, or playing a game during recess, it's important to support each other and be respectful, no matter if we win or lose. Sportsmanship means cheering each other on, helping when someone needs it, and always playing with a positive attitude. The kids are working on remembering, how we treat others is just as important as how we play the game, and working together with good sportsmanship makes every activity more fun for everyone!
