

Chip Community Standards

You must not:

- access without authority, penetrate, interfere with, damage or disrupt (or attempt to do any of the same) any part of the Service, including the account of any other user, or its security measures, any servers, other equipment or networks connected to the Service or on which it is stored or any software used in the provision of the Service, including in each case by transmitting any worms, computer viruses, malware, logic bombs, trojan horses, spyware, harmful components or any other software, code or data of a corrupt, destructive, malicious or disruptive nature;
- inject content or code or otherwise alter or interfere with the way any page of the Service is rendered or displayed in a user's browser or device;
- access the Service via a means not authorised by Chip, including, but not limited to, automated devices, scripts, bots, spiders, crawlers or scrapers (except for standard search engine technologies which are used by a search engine with Chip's express written consent);
- use the Service for any illegal, fraudulent or unauthorised purpose;
- change, modify, adapt or alter the Service or change, modify, adapt or alter another website so as to inaccurately imply an association with the Service or with Chip;
- breach our Acceptable Behaviour Policy; and
- engage in any form of excessive depositing and withdrawing. "Excessive" is defined here as making repetitive, immoderate, or unreasonable deposit or withdrawal requests with the intent to exploit or manipulate the Service provided by Chip. In instances where we have deemed your depositing or withdrawing to be excessive, we will issue a warning in order to help rectify the situation.

Chip does not accept unsolicited content, information, ideas, suggestions or other materials except where Chip has set out specific criteria and conditions for submitting them and you agree not to submit them except in accordance with those criteria and conditions.

Where you do submit unsolicited content, information, ideas or suggestions, you agree that we may use such content, information, ideas or suggestions for any purpose whatsoever, including, without limitation, developing and marketing products and Services without any liability or payment or recognition of any kind to you.