New Fishing Regulations: Protecting Our Lakes

Fred Hicks | Lake Quality Advisory Committee Chair

As part of our ongoing efforts to improve the health and balance of Cub Lake and Four Island Lake, channel catfish weighing between 2 and 10 pounds have recently been stocked in Four Island Lake. These fish were introduced to help control the invasive bullhead catfish population through natural predation.

The entire channel catfish stocking was funded through generous donations from resident anglers. Their support made this important step possible and demonstrates a strong commitment to the long-term health of our lakes.

To protect the newly stocked channel catfish while encouraging the removal of invasive bullheads, updated fishing regulations have been established for both Cub Lake and Four Island Lake.

One of the easiest ways to distinguish channel catfish from bullhead catfish is by their tails—channel catfish have a distinctly forked tail, while bullhead catfish have a rounded tail.

Please review the graphic for the full regulations and use the QR code to learn more about the fish species found in our lakes.

By following these regulations, resident anglers can help protect this investment and support a healthier, more balanced fishery for current and future generations.

Winter hoop netting is underway

Bear Valley Springs Association's Lake Quality Advisory Committee, working with Mountain View Consulting Group, has begun winter hoop netting at Four Island Lake. Nets are anticipated to remain through April 2027 to remove invasive bullhead catfish. Please stay clear of all marked nets and ropes.

HOW THE SETUP IS ARRANGED

Overall length: 73 feet. Diagram not to scale; layout may be reversed.

Large yellow buoys mark the end anchors. Green buoys mark the tail ends of the hoop nets where they connect to anchor ropes. Small yellow buoys mark the fronts of the hoop nets, with the lead net between them.

Boy Scout Troop 164 Quartz Hill learning about the hoop nets and lead net before winter deployment.

PLEASE KEEP CLEAR

Do not boat, paddle, fish, swim, or cast between the buoys or over the nets. Lines and netting may be below the surface. Do not move or handle the buoys, ropes, or nets. Steer around the entire marked area.

Thank you for helping protect Four Island Lake.
