Larissa Association of Architects • Design goes to school

March, 2016 - August, 2017

A voluntary/placement project from the collaboration between the Larissa city council and the Association of Architects in Larissa, Greece. For this project I was in a team with 4 more architects, a civil engineer and me, an industrial design student at the time. With the team we went around schools presenting what we do, and tried to teach kids how to design their ideal school, for a school makeover by the Council of Larissa.
