

A Year in Review <sup>2021</sup>

300+

We have hosted more than 300 free one-on-one consultations with community members.

20+

We have organized more than 20 different adult community events in collaboration with our longstanding and new Adult Community partners - workshops, intensives, panels, and more, including GoodEnd, the Shawn Carter Foundation, Made In America, and the Philadelphia Eagles. Thank you to all of our Adult Community partners for helping us reach ongoing and new participants virtually.

50x

Our Community of Wealth, while still virtual, has met 50 times and continues to grow!

We started the year off strong, teaching more than 500 students across 45 classrooms in the Philadelphia School District.

We completed more than 200 hours of extracurricular programming for students.

01

We hosted our annual pitch competition, this time with 9 grand prize winners!

02

We launched a new initiative in memory of our dear friend and colleague Gregory Nesmith. Greg was a mentor committed to making career paths that might feel hard-to-reach more attainable. In his name and working alongside his close friends we've now hosted 3 career panels/workshops.

03

We welcomed students to campus for our Summer Small Business Incubator Intensive - 6 weeks of on-campus work with 30+ students, including weekly leadership seminars with Be All You, College Connection with Capture Greatness as well as important community research.

04

We hired our first cohort of student interns to work on social innovation projects while working in 13 schools across Philadelphia.

05

We partnered with United Way to offer 10 small business owners an opportunity to dive deeper into entrepreneurship and financial empowerment.

06

We began working on a Community Needs Assessment in partnership with the Office of Violence Prevention at the Hamilton and Sayre Schools.

07

We presented at "Soaring Into Your Power", an event hosted by the Eagles dedicated to empowering women and girls.
