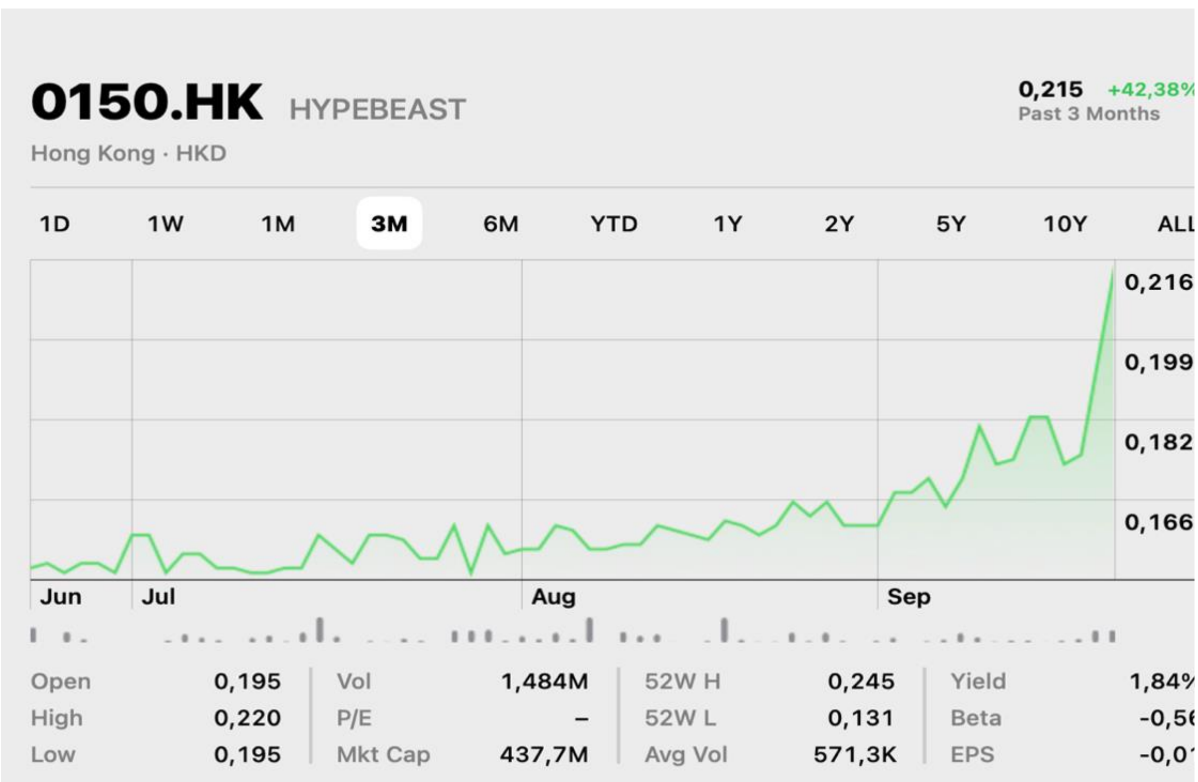
Hong-Kong Rooted Companies with Successful International Business Deliver Stellar Returns

September 22, 2025, Zurich – IndexAtlas' re-allocation of capital from Europe to Hong Kong capital markets that commenced in 2022 is delivering stellar returns. Hong Kong strongly came back this year as clearly the 2nd most active stock exchange after American exchanges, with its IPO scene being the most vibrant. Our focus on Hong Kong rooted listed companies with the successful international business is now paying off strongly.

Today we have exited from Hypebeast, the content-commerce platform, realizing over 40% return achieved since we started to add this stock to our portfolio in May 2025.



Also, over the last few trading sessions we have taken significant profits from our much larger and more strategic investment in Prenetics, where the management successfully introduced the new IM8 business model and achieved astonishing results very quickly. Since IndexAtlas began accumulating Prenetics in April 2024, our investment has tripled compared to initial purchase prices. Following partial sales in recent days, we continue to hold a meaningful position with an expected return of around 2x, and remain committed to supporting the stock as we have over the past 18 months.

Lastly, IndexAtlas is now back into Kingkey Financial stock (1468: HKG), the regulated financial services firm listed in Hong Kong. After being one of its largest shareholders and backing its merger with Jakota Capital, IndexAtlas exited Kingkey this spring. On September 4 Kingkey's shareholders meeting renamed Kingkey into Jakota Capital and now its integration with the dynamic pan-Asian investment bank is firmly on the way, transforming Kingkey (now Jakota Capital) into the regional play with highly lucrative investment banking and M&A advisory business inside. We are taking long term strategic interest in Hong Kong listed Jakota Capital and are building our position in the stock as of this month.
