

Sales Manager Aircraft interior (m/f/d)

Our client is Rohi Stoffe GmbH, one of the few globally active developers and manufacturers of high-quality cover fabrics in the aviation industry. Their main success drivers: clear, creative design, top-quality materials and craftsmanship, a commitment to customer-centricity and teamwork. Their constant growth is driven by their motivation to always be "in the right place at the right time."

To strengthen their market presence, we are seeking a proactive individual who enjoys international travel for the position of (Junior) Sales Manager / Key Account Manager (m/f/d).

Your responsibilities

- Fostering existing relationships with international key accounts through regular contact and on-site presence
- Identifying potential projects by re-engaging prior customers through the existing network and acquiring new customers
- Close, input-giving collaboration with the design and production team
- Contributing to the further development and implementation of the sales strategy
- Representing the company at international trade shows and industry events (e.g., Aircraft Interiors Expo)

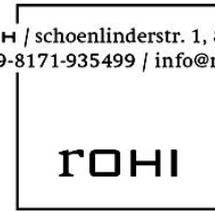

Your Profile

- A university diploma or equivalent training, as well as practical business management expertise
- A passion for design, particularly interior design
- At least 2–3 years of experience in project-based sales, ideally in a manufacturing environment with emotionally appealing products (e.g., aviation, textiles, furniture, automotive industry, commercial interiors)
- A talent for networking and a willingness to travel internationally (approx. 25%)
- A personality that thrives in sales settings, especially when communicating, advising, and inspiring others
- Multilingual: fluent English and at least conversational German

We offer

- A successful company with a family-like corporate culture
- Creative leeway and collaborative teamwork
- A high-end product that is second to none
- An attractive location south of Munich
