Colwell Building

About the Property

The Colwell Building is one of Minneapolis's most iconic historic warehouse properties, originally constructed in 1909 as the city's tallest mercantile warehouse. Thoughtfully renovated to preserve its industrial character, the building features exposed brick, hardwood floors, high ceilings, and flexible floor plans that blend historic authenticity with modern workplace functionality. Located in the heart of the Warehouse District, the Colwell Building offers a unique office environment where Minneapolis's rich commercial history meets today's creative and innovative business community.

Location

The Colwell Building is ideally positioned at the gateway to Minneapolis's Warehouse District, just off the I-394 exit and directly across from the C Ramp. Located blocks from Target Field, Target Center, and North Loop Green, the property offers immediate access to some of the city's most popular dining, entertainment, and recreational destinations. Tenants benefit from exceptional connectivity via I-394, I-94, light rail, bus routes, and the Northstar Line, along with abundant nearby parking options. Surrounded by historic architecture, thriving businesses, and a growing residential population, the area provides the perfect blend of urban energy, convenience, and accessibility for modern office users.
