ABOUT LILLY CODROIPO

In the 1980's, Renato Margarit founded Lilly and dedicated his life to producing the highest quality pizza tools Italy had to offer, after realising that most were produced by other trades such as blacksmiths or joiners. Margarit's mission was to provide the worlds pizzaiolos with robust and top-quality tools that would make their trade much easier.

Still today, Lilly are committed to creating beautiful hand-crafted accessories which incorporate functional details as well as style and aesthetics.

LLK have been importing Lilly products since 2000, we stock what we feel best support a successful pizza operation, however if there is something you see that we don't stock, just ask!

PIZZA PEELS

Things to consider:

Perforated peels allow excess flour to fall through, resulting in less flour going through the oven, colouring the stones, producing smoke and adding an unpleasant flavour to the base of your pizza.

The size of your oven matters; you should be able to comfortably launch a pizza next to another.

Length: You should be able to comfortably rotate from your prep station and into the back of your oven without reaching into the oven with your hand.

3D elements on the peel reduce friction, allowing for a smoother loading/unloading experience.

SPIN & BAKE

Things to consider:

The size of the blade should be based on the size of the pizza you are producing, to allow you to comfortably lift the pizzas out with good balance.

The size of your oven matters; you should be able to manoeuvre pizzas that are next to each other comfortably.

A perforated peel stops any flour from the base from coming out with your pizza.

Length: You should be able to comfortably manoeuvre pizzas in the back of the oven without reaching into the oven with your hand. We would base the length on the depth of your oven plus the open door.

CLEANING

Things to consider:

Natural fibre brushes are only suitable for deck ovens, where there is not an exposed flame. The natural fibres will get shorter over time as they are exposed to heat, therefore they do need to be replaced regularly, we can supply the head only.

Brass bristle brushes are best suited to living flames ovens, both wood & gas as they can withstand the extreme temperatures.

Scrapers & rakes are used to remove built up, carbonised deposits.

It is best practice to perform a burn off on a deck oven. At the end of service, turn the lights off, turn the temperature to top temp and once it reaches this turn the oven off. In the morning all residue can be simply brushed out.
