ABOUT

As key member in the firm's Dealership Services Group and Tax Department, Chad Goodman prepares and reviews federal and state tax returns for multi-state entities and high net-worth individuals. In addition to providing tax compliance and planning for his clients, he often acts as an advisor assisting with complex merger and acquisitions.

Chad's passion for providing service excellence has helped him to not only solve clients' problems as they arise, but anticipate future issues before they occur. He understands the importance of being proactive and spends a considerable amount of time on tax planning and projections for the clients that he serves.

A native of Chattanooga, Chad enjoys giving back to the community and currently serves on the board for the Northside Neighborhood House. On the weekends Chad enjoys spending time with his wife and daughter.
