Investment Statement – Q3 2025

On 30 September 2025 redemption requests totalling ~30% of Net Asset Value ("NAV") had been submitted by Unitholders. As a result of the significant level of redemption requests you were previously notified of a suspension of the NAV. Based on the liquidity available to the Fund at present it is not possible to meet those redemption requests without disposing of all the assets of the Fund. The Board of Darwin Property Investment Management (Guernsey) LTD (the "Manager") has determined that a sale of the assets of the Fund at this point in time would be value destructive for Unitholders. It would take approximately 12 months to realise the assets with significant transaction risk surrounding the process. There is a lack of trade buyers in the market able or willing to execute a transaction of this nature and a distinct possibility that private equity or other professional investors could seek to take advantage of the stress in the Fund structure to acquire the portfolio at a distressed price.

In light of these developments the Manager has determined to value the Fund on the red book valuation methodology reflecting current market value on disposal of the underlying Fund property. This is a departure from the Discounted Cash Flow ("DCF") methodology previously applied and results in a significant adjustment to the previously published NAV of the Fund.

The Manager has determined that the Fund cannot continue as structured and is preparing a restructuring plan providing Unitholders with a route to realising significantly more value than exit at current market value. The restructuring plan requires time to realise value, but the financial benefit is highly compelling delivering far above current exit value through liquidating stock and pivoting the business model to a more passive collector of site fee income. The Manager will be recommending restructure as the best path to realising maximum value and encourages investors to support the restructuring. Details of the restructuring plan together with important legal documentation for your consideration will be circulated in due course.
