

SPELLING RULES!

macmillan
education

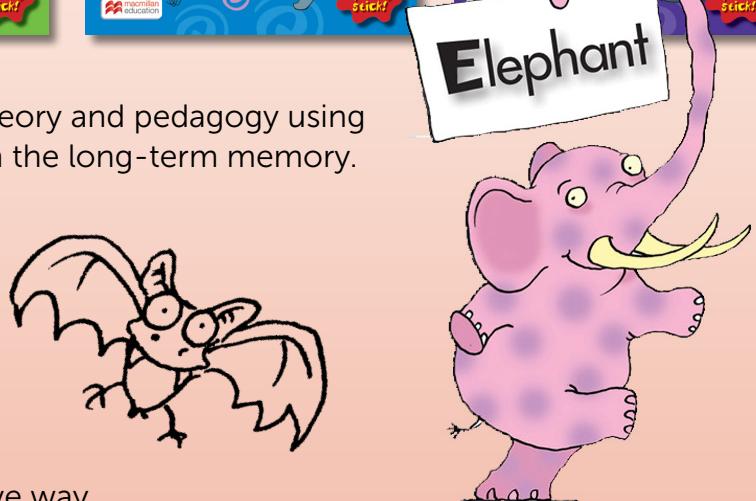

Spelling Rules! is based on sound learning theory and pedagogy using strategies that successfully embed spelling in the long-term memory.

Spelling Rules! systematically develops:

- phonological (the sound of spelling)
- visual (the patterns of spelling)
- morphemic (the function of words)
- etymological (the history of words) and
- kinaesthetic (physical writing)

in a fun, engaging and proven-to-be-effective way.

- The Learner's Book and Teacher Resource Books work together as a ready-made, whole-school spelling programme and can be used independently as stand-alone resources for learners and teachers
- Helpful advice on developing a whole-school approach, classroom organisation, integrating spelling into curriculum and strategies for teaching spelling
- Includes high frequency words to help increase fluency

GRAMMAR RULES!

macmillan
education

Grammar Rules! provides a context-based approach so that learners understand how to use grammar when constructing their own texts and responding to the texts of others.

Learners achieve meaning, from the contextual level of the whole text down to sentence and clause level and to the level of word groups, individual words and word parts.

- Sequential, systematic approach for the whole school — and fun
- Units cover a range of informative, imaginative and persuasive texts
- Each unit is based on a model text that establishes the context for the grammar focus
- Each unit focuses on one or more aspects of grammar and includes extension or enrichment to suit the needs of the learner.

Unit 1

Dear Timmy,
Last weekend I went fishing with my grandparents. We fished from the end of the jetty not far from where they live. My grandma caught the first fish. It was only small so we threw it back. I caught the second fish. My grandma shouted, "Way to go, Milly!" My fish was too small to keep so I kissed it and let it go. My grandpa didn't catch anything but he didn't mind. We bought fish and chips on the way home. I like going fishing with my grandparents.
From Milly.
