

I will never stop loving you. Not in this life, not in any life after. You were more than just a part of mystery, you were the chapters that made everything worth reading. I miss you more than I know how to carry, but I'll carry it anyway, because that is what forever love truly means. Even in your absence, you live in every beat of my heart, in every Quiet thought, in every breath I take. Love like this doesn't fade, it becomes eternal. Though Heaven took you too soon, I trust we'll meet again. Until then, I'll cherish every memory and hold your love close forever.
