2. School in Tunisia: Early 20th century. This postcard depicts a photograph of students at a Jewish girls' school in Tunis, Tunisia. The French caption, "Ecole Juive," means Jewish School. The girls are richly dressed in traditional clothes and the traditional conical Jewish female headdress, suggesting that they came from affluent families.
3. London Matriculation Exam Poster: 1948. This poster was produced in Israel to promote the learning and testing of English.
4. List of Jewish Day Schools: 1909. This is a list of international Jewish schools by country and the number of students in each school.
5. Boys' School in Morocco: 1950. This is a photograph of a Jewish boys' school in Casablanca, Morocco. The school was funded by Jews in the United States, who sent community members to Europe to be trained to teach general and Jewish studies and to become religious community leaders.
6. Learn Hebrew Poster: This poster was created by the Department of Language at the Ministry of Education. At the top of the poster is a portrait of Chaim Nachman Bialik, a leader of the cultural Zionist movement, who believed in the importance of a unifying modern Hebrew language. At the center is the quote: "Language creates one heart for the entire nation."
7. How Do You Keep Your Body Clean?: The poster was produced by Israel's Center for Educational Technology and the Ministry of Health to promote healthy and hygienic practices among children. It asks: "How do you keep your body clean?"
8. Jewish School of Adrianople: 1912. This postcard depicts a photograph of boys in a gym class at the Jewish school of Adrianople, Turkey. One of the school's goals was to promote Jewish self-defense and self-sufficiency through education and professional development. The school was a member of the Alliance Israélite Universelle, an educational organization based in Paris.

9. Learning a Language with Berlitz: 1971. This is an advertisement published in the Maariv newspaper for multiple foreign language classes offered at the Berlitz International Language School.
10. Purim at Bezalel Academy: This photograph seems to have been taken between the years 1908 and 1920 and shows the students of Bezalel Art School dressed in elaborate Purim costumes, as might be expected from creative art students.
