

Autobiography Examples for 7-Graders

1. A Young Athlete's Autobiography

My name is Chris, I'm 13 years old, and studying in the 7th grade. I've been combining school with sports for as long as I can remember. My love for running emerged when I was little. I enjoyed running around the yard and competing with friends. So, when I entered the first grade, I instantly joined the school's track and field team. I still run today. I enjoy getting stronger and more persistent after workouts. I also love the feeling of excitement before the race and, of course, the thrill of a victory. I hope to continue my career and become a professional athlete.

2. A Book Lover's Autobiography

Hi, I'm Sonya. I am 14 years old, and I love books. I learned to read when I was six, and it instantly captivated me. Ever since then, I have spent days on end reading books in different genres and topics. At the moment, my favorites are fantasy and science fiction. Being so thrilled by reading, I also joined a book club in my school to explore my passion with other book lovers. I dream about writing my own books when I grow up.

3. A Little Chef's Autobiography

My name is Jared, and I have an unusual hobby - I love cooking. I discovered my interest in it from early childhood when I was captivated watching my grandmother in the kitchen. Now, I'm 12 and I continue following my passion. I enjoy trying different recipes with my grandma and
