

Autobiography Examples For High School Students

1. Autobiography of a Student Interested in Science

Hi, I'm Blaire Clarkson, and I'm 16 years old. Currently, I'm studying in the 11th grade at ABC High School. My all-time favorite subject in school is Science. I have been interested in it since early childhood, when I loved spending hours watching National Geographic documentaries. In school, my interest in this subject grew stronger. I'm interested in learning how things around me work, and biology is one of my favorite subfields of science. Last year, I started volunteering at a local hospital to learn more about the field and pursue my aspirations to become a doctor.

2. High-School Athlete's Autobiography

My name is Tess Thompson, I'm 17 years old, a student at XYZ High School, and I love sports. I've been pretty athletic for as long as I can remember. I always joined in when my brothers played football or basketball, so when I learned that a girls' basketball team in my school was inviting new players, I didn't hesitate. In total, I've been playing basketball at school for over 5 years. It taught me to be a part of the team and stay perseverant during any challenge. It also taught me discipline and the importance of sports, so I want to continue playing when I'm in college.

3. Autobiography of a High School Student Interested in Music

Hi, I'm Edward Nord. I am 16 years old and study in the 11th grade. My story with music began in early childhood. Falling asleep to my mom playing the piano and singing a lullaby, I developed a strong passion for music. As I was growing up, I learned the basics of music from my mom and then joined my school's band. My instrument is also a piano, like my mom's. And it's more than just producing sounds to me. In my opinion, music is about communicating deep emotions and connecting people. I dream about becoming a professional composer when I grow up.
