

SALES REPRESENTATIVE/PUBLISHER, MAGAZINES

If you're passionate about the place you call home, let Wainscot Media help you publish your own local magazine. It's a local media marketing system whose components (a high-end print magazine, social media, digital marketing and events) work hand in hand.

Wainscot Media has successfully launched town magazines and websites throughout the country and we're now planning a launch in your community!

Benefits include:

- Work flexible hours from home.
- Earn a good, regular income with strong growth potential.
- Enjoy the satisfaction of building community connections and providing a highly valued, feel-good product.

As a publisher, your responsibilities will include:

- Use our proven system to sell advertising to local businesses (both within and beyond the borders of your town) that want to reach residents.
- Help choose stories for publication. This is a fun part of the job that doesn't require "heavy lifting" by you. Don't worry if you're not the creative type. You'll work with a local editor, who will assign stories and photo shoots, and handle the other aspects of content creation.

Equally important is what you don't have to worry about. Wainscot helps you have a rewarding experience with minimal risk and hassle:

- Build your own business, with no caps on income.
- No investment is required by you. We cover the costs and pay the bills.
- The only tools you need to provide are a laptop, an internet connection, a smart phone and a car.
- We handle design and layout, top-level editing and proofreading, billing and collections, ad design and production, and printing and distribution.
- We provide ongoing support in the form of sales training and coaching, marketing materials, and creative consultation.

Typically our local publishers have a background in sales or marketing and were looking to transition to a more satisfying career. Some had taken years off from work to raise a family and were ready to get out there and start earning again (minus the need to commute). Others worked as real estate agents and found that the income wasn't steady enough. This opportunity provides a regular income stream that you can build higher!

What are the key traits for success? That's easy:

- A positive outlook.
- An outgoing personality.
- A strong desire to succeed in a town that you love.

Does that describe you? Let's talk!
