Tips for Effective Bible Study

- Before anything, pray! Ask God to give you insight into His Word.
- Choose a location to study in which you'll be free from distractions.
- Choose a consistent time to read, and one that works with your schedule and habits. If you're not a morning person, for example, it may not be wise to commit to doing your reading at 6:00 in the morning, but 8:00 at night may be an ideal time.
- If possible, set your phone to silent, turn it off, or do not take it into your study area during your reading time.
- Use a journal to record insights, questions, and to write down prayers.
- You may want to keep a Bible dictionary or commentary nearby for questions about the context or meaning of what you're reading, or use a study Bible. The IVP Bible Background Commentary and the NIV Cultural Backgrounds Study Bible are great resources. There are also commentaries available in the Canyon campus' library, just across from the sanctuary. A church staff member can assist you with finding additional materials.
- Read slowly and take time to absorb the Text. If something seems confusing, take the time to pray about it, research it, or discuss it with your GrowGroup.
