

Toadally Awesome

The Story of the Toad

Lyrics: Sarah Hancock

Composition: Adam Daffurn

Pin back your ears for an amphibian song
Humans get ready to croak along.
Stop your bike, your bus, your car
And find out how toad-ally awesome we are.

You see the eyes, the tongue, this leg
It all began as a tiny egg
Some say it's slime, but we call it spawn
And out of the spawn, a tadpole was born.

We swim around, looking for munch
Plants, algae, our favourite lunch
Then when we're full, it's time to grow
Into a fully fledged toad if you didn't know

When Spring is sprung, it's time to repeat
Eggs, tadpole, toads - how neat?
A toad life is toady bliss
Baby that's called metamorphosis.

Got a problem with juicy bugs?
Flowers getting munched by a pesky slug?
Invite a toad round for tea
And we'll eat them up all for free!

Got a place we can kick back and chill?
No pollutants, it makes us ill.
A pond we can lay eggs in every year
Toad's got your back - give us a cheer!

We forgot to mention one little thing
A problem for us around early Spring
To get to our ponds, we often cross roads
Which can mean bad news for us simple toads.

We're only small so it takes us a while
To cross the road in true toady style
So when you zoom pass, you run the risk
Of your big human wheels getting us squished.

It's too sad to think about, we're getting croaked up
So let's pick up the tempo and round this song up

Humans you've heard our amphibian song
We toad you all what you're doing wrong
So stop that bike, that bus, that car,
And remember how toad-ally awesome we are.
