What is Verjus?

Verjus (French for “green juice”) is the juice of unripe wine grapes.

Verjus makes an excellent substitute for citrus or vinegar in food and beverage. Unfermented, the juice is naturally non-alcoholic. The juice’s natural acidity makes it incredibly versatile for chefs and mixologists alike.

Tasting Notes

Nose of ripe golden apple, white peach, marigolds, and candied lemon peel. Palate is rich with bright baked apple, toasted almond, and candied ginger. Finishes sweet with a balancing acid and mouth-coating weight. The natural sugar of the fruit can provide richness and complexity in beverages and food. Consider using in place of floral or fruit liqueurs in cocktails. In food, use like white balsamic for dressings, sauces, and desserts.

Bottled 7/30/2026. 193 cases produced.
