

Old City Publishing, Inc.

Address: 628 N 2nd St, Philadelphia, PA 19123

Statement: Old City Publishing, located right where historic Old City meets the up-and-coming neighborhood of Northern Liberties, is a publishing house dedicated to providing the international community with the latest research and developments in the sciences, technology, medicine, and the humanities. InLiquid curates exhibitions in their storefront window, providing the general public with 24/7 access to the artwork on display.

Details:

- Format: 1-person site-specific installation, each 4 months long.
- Open to 3D / site-specific installation work.
- Layout: Installation space is the front display window of a business that is visible on 2 sides.
  - The installation space is roughly the shape of a cube with windows on two sides. It is approximately 58" front to back x 55" side to side x 70" floor to transom. There is an additional 24" above the transom to the ceiling. The space is accessed through a curtain at the back wall, 55" wide x 70" high. There is space for pedestals, but any pedestals used must be on the shorter side to be visible from street level. The ceiling, while not weight-bearing, allows lightweight works to be hung with monofilament; there are a number of hooks in the ceiling that can support lightweight works. We discourage adding additional nails or screws to the walls and ceiling.

Preference: Very open to a wide range of styles; one is an annual holiday-themed display.
