

VOTERS DEMAND A SEISMIC SHIFT IN K-12 EDUCATION

A national survey conducted by Parents for School Options and Susquehanna Polling & Research reveals overwhelming voter dissatisfaction with the current K-12 education system. Parents and voters are rejecting the status quo and demanding reforms that prioritize student success, parental empowerment, transparency, and funding that follows students rather than bureaucracies.

EDUCATION IN AMERICA IS AT A CRISIS POINT

8 IN 10

(79%) of voters believe K-12 education is on the wrong track — a sharp increase from 63% in 2022. This concern spans political and racial demographics.

Political Party	2025	2022	Racial Ethnicity	2025	2022
Republican	82%	63%	African American	81%	46%
Independent	72%	66%	Hispanic	72%	59%
Democrat	81%	59%	White	82%	63%

FIXING K-12 EDUCATION WHAT VOTERS WANT

1. School Choice
2. More Transparency for Parents
3. A Return to Classical Education

favor a federal law mandating that public schools teach a curriculum centered on history, math, science, and English.

61%

favor tuition voucher programs, permitting public funds for public, private, or religious schools.

3 IN 4

support President Trump's 50-state school choice initiative, allowing public funds to follow students to schools of their parents' choice.

of voters support parents' right to know what's being taught in schools.

Support by party: Republican (74%), Independent (68%), Democrat (65%).

back open enrollment policies, letting parents choose schools outside district lines.

BROAD SUPPORT FOR A SEISMIC SHAKEUP

Voters back bold reforms in President Trump's education agenda, including eliminating the Department of Education (DOE) support shifting education responsibilities back to the states (62% among Republicans).

47%

45%

believe eliminating DOE would improve education, compared to 25% who foresee negative consequences.

American voters are ready for a transformative shift in K-12 education. The demand for choice, transparency, and curriculum reform is clear.

THE TIME FOR CHANGE IS NOW.