Unpasteurized and unfiltered — that's what makes Vřšky a truly lively, artisanal beer.

Honey Beer Vršky 12°

semi-dark yeast beer, unpasteurized
draft lager, ABV 4.8%

bitterness •• color •••

Honey Special is brewed in the traditional way, using a double mash process with four types of specialty malt, hops, and yeast. It has a typical honey-like color. After brewing, the beer undergoes fermentation in a cylindroconical tank for at least 14 days, followed by maturation for at least 16 days in a lagering tank. In brewing terminology, this is referred to as a two-phase fermentation process. This beer is produced using classic brewing methods known as bottom fermentation. During maturation, real bee honey is added through a cold infusion process. As a result, the honey's health-promoting properties are preserved in their full potency throughout the product's shelf life. The natural sugars in the honey are converted into alcohol and carbon dioxide during fermentation.

VŘŠKY - SEASONAL SPECIALS

Vršky IPA 11°

semi-dark yeast beer, unpasteurized
top-fermented beer with 4.2% alcohol by volume

bitterness ••••• color ••

IPA has a rich brewing tradition in the US and Canada. This top-fermented beer is brewed using infusion brewing—one of the oldest and most traditional brewing methods in the world. It is typically brewed with a blend of specialty malts and exclusively American hops—the same varieties used in our India Pale Ale: Citra, Chinook, and Amarillo. These hops are extremely aromatic and more bitter. The use of special top-fermenting yeasts imparts a distinctive character to this beer, enhancing its unique flavor. It offers a much more pronounced hop character compared to the typical lagers we're used to. In this IPA-style beer, the generous hop content not only defines its flavor but also acts as a natural preservative. The beer fermented at 18°C in special cylindroconical tanks, which are hermetically sealed and also function as pressure vessels. After fermentation, some of the hops are added at cold temperatures. IPA-style beers are becoming especially popular in Slovakia.

Vršky Majstrova 13°

semi-dark yeast beer, unpasteurized
draft lager, ABV 5.0%

bitterness ••••• color ••

Offered exclusively during the Beer Festival period (September–December).

Majstrova 13 was first brewed to mark the 10th anniversary of our brewery, introducing a special lager that is distinct from our other offerings.

The brewing process lasts 120 minutes, with hops added at four different stages during the boil. Subsequently, the beer is cold-hopped 5 times with hops during the fermentation process in a cylindrical-conical tank during a fermentation period of 13 days. This hopping method gives the beer a pleasant, pronounced bitterness and a more intense hop aroma.

Vřšky Zbojník 16°

semi-dark yeast beer, unpasteurized
draft lager, ABV 7.0%
On tap from December to March

bitterness •••• color ••••

The semi-dark special Zbojník is brewed traditionally using a double mash process, with four types of specialty malt, three varieties of hops, and yeast. The beer has a beautiful Bavarian-type color, with a subtle bitter flavor. After brewing, the beer undergoes fermentation in a cylindroconical tank for at least 14 days, followed by maturation for at least 16 days in a lagering tank. In brewing terminology, this is referred to as a two-phase fermentation process. This beer is produced using classic brewing methods known as bottom fermentation.

Vřšky Cherry 12°

semi-dark yeast beer, unpasteurized
draft lager, ABV 4.8%
On tap from December to March

bitterness •• color •••

Cherry Special is brewed traditionally using a double mash process with four specialty malts, hops, and yeast. It has a rich cherry color. After brewing, the beer undergoes fermentation in a cylindroconical tank for at least 14 days, followed by maturation for at least 16 days in a lagering tank. In brewing terminology, this is referred to as a two-phase fermentation process. This beer is produced using classic brewing methods known as bottom fermentation. During the maturation process, real cherry jam is added cold. The sugars present in sour cherries are converted into alcohol and carbon dioxide during fermentation. The taste combines beer and fruit flavors.

SLÁDKOVA LEMONADE - NON-ALCOHOLIC BEER DRINK

A non-alcoholic sparkling drink with elderberry flavor and honey, offering a 100% natural refreshment with a subtle malt undertone. The lemonade contains no preservatives or artificial colorings. Featuring a straw-like color and a pronounced malty aroma, its flavor is malty too, with no trace of typical beer notes.
