New York, New York (April 7, 2026) — New York-based Jamie Stern Furniture, Carpet, Leather & Fabric, a leader in hospitality, corporate, and high-end residential design for more than four decades, is pleased to announce its participation in 3 Days of Design Copenhagen, taking place June 10–12, 2026. The company will present its acclaimed carpet exhibition, Woven Resistance, alongside the Threshold Collection, bringing artistic expression, sustainable craftsmanship, and modern design to one of the world's leading design events.

Jamie Stern is proud to bring its carpet exhibition, Woven Resistance, to 3 Days of Design. The exhibition unites 13 interior designers and industry professionals to create one-of-a-kind hand-tufted and flat-weave rugs in sustainable fibers. Each rug is an original work of art representing the designer's personal response to the current political environment in the United States. Participating designers include Matt Goodrich of Goodrich Design; Penelope Fischer-White; Suzanne Tick of Suzanne Tick Designs; and others.

The exhibition will be complemented by the Threshold Collection, designed by William Oberlin, Jamie Stern's Creative Director. This is his first collection launched with Jamie Stern since joining the company. Threshold is a new seating series created specifically for hospitality and corporate interior lobbies and transitional spaces. Intended for the in-between—lobbies, lounges, and gathering spaces where people move through moments of arrival, waiting, connecting, and departure—the collection balances comfort and professionalism with low, modern forms, warm wood details, and adaptable fabrics that bridge corporate and hospitality environments. Named for stages of transition—Portal, Crossing, Passage, and Terminus—the collection reflects the quiet narrative of movement that defines spaces between destinations.

Together, these presentations reflect Jamie Stern's commitment to collaborative creativity, sustainable materials, and purposeful design for both residential and contract settings.
