

ORIGAMINE to Debut at 3daysofdesign 2026, Blending Japanese Washi-Craft with Danish Minimalism

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK – [10 -12 June, 2026] – Japanese designer Tomomi Yokoyama is proud to announce her exhibition, "ORIGAMINE," at Sturlasgade 14S, 2300 København during 3daysofdesign 2026. This collection introduces a unique perspective on "Japandi" style, merging proprietary washi-paper folding techniques with functional Danish-inspired design to create a warm, harmonious interior experience.

A Dialogue Between Two Cultures

ORIGAMINE—a name derived from "Origami" and "Origin"—represents a mission to find perfect harmony between different cultures. While the "Japandi" trend is global, Yokoyama brings an authentic Japanese perspective to the movement, focusing on the richness of textures and seamless integration into daily life rather than bold shapes.

The Collection Highlights

The exhibition features a curated lineup that bridges the gap between traditional Japanese elements and modern European living spaces:

ORIGAMINE Shelf: A signature piece inspired by the rhythm of Japanese sliding doors and Copenhagen ribs.

Portable Light: A modern interpretation of the "ANDON," the traditional Japanese portable lantern.

Wall Light: A fixture utilizing "Miura-ori" (Miura fold) in mesh, inspired by the delicate structure of folding fans.

About the Brand and Designer

TOMOMI YOKOYAMA DESIGN is a design studio founded in 2022 by Japanese designer Tomomi Yokoyama.

Tomomi Yokoyama: A product designer. A former designer for Citizen Watch Co., Yokoyama focuses on the harmony of materials and surroundings. Drawing on her extensive experience in timepiece design, Yokoyama specializes in fashion-oriented aesthetics. For her first international exhibition, she embarked on a new challenge: a journey of international exchange and co-creation. The studio seeks to achieve a fusion and harmony of two distinct cultures and ideas, fostering a world where different cultures hold deep mutual respect.
