

Fragments of Light: BOMMA Unveils an Installation of Upcycled Crystal Fragments in Copenhagen's Court Theatre within 3daysofdesign

Czech design lighting brand BOMMA will unveil its unique installation of the upcycled Fragments of Light during the 3daysofdesign 2026 festival. It is set within the extraordinary interiors of the newly renovated Court Theatre (Hofteatret) — a historic 18th-century theatre recently reopened after six years of restoration.

Dates: June 10–12, 2026

Opening hours: Daily 9:30 am – 6 pm

Ballet performances: Every 30 minutes throughout the day

Location: The Court Theatre (Hofteatret), Christiansborg Ridebane 18, Copenhagen

Fragments of Light invites visitors into a quiet, suspended world where light drifts through layers of air, fabric and glass. What was once discarded becomes radiant—fragments gathered, fused, and transformed into a shimmering cloud.

In the stillness of the theatre, light moves slowly, breathing with space. It gently reveals how matter can be reborn, attention soften, and beauty emerge from what we choose to recycle.

BOMMA introduces an immersive experience, composed of Fragments lighting, made from upcycled crystal shards from previous production at BOMMA glassworks. Each piece is first cut from a Fragmentglass panel and then meticulously refined by a master glass cutter. The hand-made shapes resemble gemstones created under pressure to reveal their inner beauty.

To pay homage to the location, BOMMA returns to the theatrical aspect with ballet performances specially created for this event. The Court Theatre opened after 6 years of extensive renovations this March, offering its space for this one-of-a-kind experience.

About BOMMA

BOMMA is a Czech design brand, manufacturing handcrafted sculptural lighting. Our products transform interiors, creating a distinct mood in each space – from eye-catching centrepieces and installations to soft ambient light. BOMMA's glassworks foster traditional craft in a technologically advanced facility, enabling the production of exceptionally demanding pieces. The brand is renowned for its signature designs, bringing a sense of grace and delight. This minimalist, yet daring, aesthetic is appreciated by international architects and interior designers and has quickly gained recognition within the design world.
