AXOR will present AXOR Archivio, its new collection with Barber Osgerby unveiled at Salone del Mobile in April, celebrating design heritage, craftsmanship, and contemporary expression. During the festival, AXOR will be hosted at the Dinesen Showroom (Søtorvet 5) in Copenhagen's city center, providing a refined setting for dialogue and discovery.

Schiltach, May 2026. AXOR, the German design brand known for its pioneering approach to luxury bathrooms, will participate in 3daysofdesign Copenhagen in June. AXOR will present AXOR Archivio, its new collection with Barber Osgerby unveiled at Salone del Mobile in April, celebrating design heritage, craftsmanship, and contemporary expression.

During the festival, AXOR will be hosted at the Dinesen Showroom (Søtorvet 5) in Copenhagen's city center, providing a refined setting for dialogue and discovery. On Wednesday, June 10, AXOR will welcome international media to a press breakfast from 10:30 to 12:00, hosted together with the celebrated British design studio Barber Osgerby, long-standing creative partners of the brand.

Architects and designers are warmly invited to visit the Dinesen showroom for a designer talk on Thursday, June 11 at 4pm, to experience AXOR Archivio and engage with the London-based designers Edward Barber and Jay Osgerby.

AXOR's participation in 3daysofdesign underscores its commitment to international design culture and to fostering meaningful exchange at the intersection of architecture, craft, and innovation.

"We are very excited to participate in 3daysofdesign and to introduce AXOR to a design-savvy crowd in Copenhagen," says Anke Sohn, Head of Global Brand Marketing, AXOR. "Following the successful debut of AXOR Archivio at Salone del Mobile in Milan, this is a wonderful opportunity to present the collection to international architects and designers and to continue the dialogue around design, craftsmanship, and personal expression."

New Bathroom Collection by Barber Osgerby

From June 10-12, architects, interior designers, and design enthusiasts will have the opportunity to discover a new AXOR bathroom collection by the acclaimed design studio Barber Osgerby. The collection distills decades of design into a refined, contemporary design language. Drawing inspiration from historical forms, archival silhouettes, and classical detailing, it celebrates timeless design—uniting soft, flowing lines with balanced proportions and subtle decorative accents. The result is a modern yet familiar expression that integrates harmoniously into a wide range of interiors.

AXOR creates iconic faucets, showers and accessories for luxurious bathrooms and kitchens. Developed in collaboration with world-renowned designers - Philippe Starck, Antonio Citterio, Barber Osgerby and Patricia Urquiola among them - AXOR products come in an unrivaled variety of styles. Uncompromising when it comes to lasting quality, refined aesthetics and advanced technological performance, AXOR manufactures more than 90 percent of its products in Germany's Black Forest. This ensures excellence in every detail while delivering luxurious water experiences. AXOR inspires and enables architects, interior designers and the design-savvy public to shape water-related spaces that reflect the individual personality of the user. Part of the Hansgrohe Group, AXOR is the exclusive brand dedicated to offering distinctive, desirable, progressive products.
