“Art of Gathering” - new collections, collaborations and spaces designed for connection.

During this year’s 3daysofdesign, CAIA LEIFSDOTTER invites visitors into a sensory installation hosted in the beautiful new store of KONÉ in the heart of Copenhagen. Centered around this year’s theme, Art of Gathering, CAIA LEIFSDOTTER presents a new collection alongside a series of works exploring presence, materiality and the spaces that bring people together. The exhibition takes place at KONÉ, Borgergade 15B, and marks the launch of several significant new pieces for the brand.

Among the highlights is Forsen - an entirely new modular sofa designed by CAIA LEIFSDOTTER. Created to bring people closer, Forsen encourages presence, conversation and human connection. The sofa draws inspiration from the designer’s childhood memories of the family’s summer house in Sweden, “Knappforsen” - a place without television, where furniture naturally faced one another, inviting dialogue, gathering and togetherness.

As a natural extension of the sofa’s distinctive design language, CAIA LEIFSDOTTER will also unveil the new Forsen Coffee Table during the exhibition. Designed in dialogue with Forsen’s bold, architectural silhouette, the table continues the collection’s focus on presence, togetherness, and balance within a space. With its precise lines, sculptural proportions, and tactile materiality, the Forsen Coffee Table is conceived as a gathering object.

In addition, CAIA LEIFSDOTTER expands the existing Eden collection with a new portable lamp, continuing the collection’s organic language and poetic approach to light and materials.

The exhibition also marks the first collaboration between CAIA LEIFSDOTTER and KONÉ through the piece Il Cuscino. Designed by CAIA LEIFSDOTTER and realised through KONÉ’s masterful craftsmanship. Crafted from the finest leather sourced from KONÉ’s archive in Italy and sculpted in the patented Silver Root form, Il Cuscino merges refined leather craftsmanship with CAIA LEIFSDOTTER’s signature silhouette.

Together, CAIA LEIFSDOTTER and KONÉ welcome visitors into a universe shaped by authenticity, a deep respect for quality and the inherent value of materials - a collaboration existing beyond passing trends and tendencies.
