Flokk presents “Connecting the Dots” at 3daysofdesign, Copenhagen

Flokk brings together its portfolio of design-led brands for 3daysofdesign 2026, staging an exhibition that explores how distinct design voices, cultures and perspectives combine to form a broader, more considered approach to the workplace.

Copenhagen, 10–12 June 2025 | Flokk will present Connecting the Dots at Matrikel1, Copenhagen, as part of 3daysofdesign. The exhibition brings Flokk’s collection of brands into a shared space, not to present them as a unified range, but to show what becomes possible when different ideas about how to design furniture are brought into conversation.

The spatial concept for the exhibition was developed by Krøyer-Sætter-Lassen. Their approach uses circular openings and layered sightlines to ensure that no product, brand or designer is experienced in isolation. As visitors move through the space, they are continually exposed to multiple perspectives at once, building a picture of Flokk’s collective offering as they go.

Flokk is a group of eleven independent brands, built across Europe and North America over a combined heritage of more than 400 years. Each brand has been shaped by its own market, design culture and approach to how people work. Connecting the Dots uses that diversity as its primary material, presenting the brands not as a catalogue but as a system of related ideas.

The exhibition includes a series of new launches and updates across the Flokk portfolio, with individual press materials available for each product.
