

UNITED KINGDOM – August 2026

CONTENTS

UK GENERAL	1
WHY STAMP DUTY ON PRIMARY HOMES SHOULD BE SCRAPPED	1
AXE STAMP DUTY? HOW ANDY BURNHAM COULD CHANGE PROPERTY TAX	1
BRITAIN'S PROPERTY TAXES SEND ALL THE WRONG SIGNALS - THE PROPORTIONAL PROPERTY TAX CAN FIX THAT	2
BURNHAM VOWS TO REFORM BUSINESS RATES TO HALT HIGH STREET DECLINE.....	2
COUNCIL TAX REFORM: WHY WE SHOULD GO FURTHER THAN CENTRE FOR CITIES.....	2
UK GOVERNMENT APPOINTS INDEPENDENT REVIEW OF HOTEL BUSINESS RATES	2
ENGLAND	3
BUSINESS RATES UPDATE: WHAT THE LATEST RELIEF MEASURES MEAN FOR BUSINESSES AND THE WIDER ECONOMY	3
BUSINESS RATES 'TINKERING' IS NOT ENOUGH SAY CAMPAIGNERS AS THEY DEMAND FULL-SCALE OVERHAUL OF HATED LEVY	3
THIS TAX RISE MAKES THE MOST SENSE, BUT YOU MIGHT HATE IT.....	3
THE TIDE IS TURNING ON PROPERTY TAX REFORM.....	3
HOW MANSION TAX INSPECTORS COULD GET INTO YOUR HOME AND FINE YOU £500	3
TAXING TIMES: POLICIES, POLITICS, AND PRINCIPLES.....	4

UK GENERAL

Why Stamp Duty on primary homes should be scrapped

This article provides an opinion on how Britain's housing mobility problem could be solved by scrapping stamp duty. The article explains the reasons for this.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://fairershare.org.uk/why-stamp-duty-on-primary-homes-should-be-scrapped/>

Axe stamp duty? How Andy Burnham could change property tax

This article looks at the current debate regarding reform of stamp duty and council tax and looks at how property is taxed now, why there are calls for reform, what the options are and what the objections are, a comparison with the systems adopted by other countries and whether the prime minister is likely to go ahead with reform.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

International Property Tax Institute

IPTI Xtracts- The items included in IPTI Xtracts have been extracted from published information. IPTI accepts no responsibility for the accuracy of the information or any opinions expressed in the articles.

<https://www.theguardian.com/money/2026/aug/11/stamp-duty-andy-burnham-uk-property-council-tax-house-prices>

Britain's property taxes send all the wrong signals - The Proportional Property Tax can fix that

This article looks at the current property tax system for homeowners and finds that it actively discourages people from moving. The article reinforces opinion that the answer to this is a proportional property tax and looks at how it would reform the housing market.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://fairershare.org.uk/britains-property-taxes-send-all-the-wrong-signals-the-proportional-property-tax-can-fix-that/>

Burnham vows to reform business rates to halt high street decline

This article reports that one of the PM's earliest priorities is to breathe life back into Britain's High Streets by reforming business rates. The article discusses how online shopping has changed the face of the High Street and whether business rates reform is the answer.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://londonlovesbusiness.com/burnham-vows-to-reform-business-rates-to-halt-high-street-decline/>

Council Tax reform: why we should go further than Centre for Cities

This article provides the opinion of the chairman of Fairer Share, a lobbying group for council tax reform, who discusses the contribution to the argument of Centre for Cities, who believe that that Council Tax should become much more proportional while remaining locally controlled. Both groups share the opinion that banding should be abandoned, whereas unlike Fairer Share, Centre for Cities does not comment on Stamp Duty abolition.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://fairershare.org.uk/council-tax-reform-why-we-should-go-further-than-centre-for-cities/>

UK government appoints independent review of hotel business rates

This article announces an independent review into business rate valuations for hotels. It is understood that the review will feed into government policy in 2028.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://www.costar.com/article/1423678877/uk-government-appoints-independent-review-of-hotel-business-rates>

International Property Tax Institute

IPTI Xtracts- The items included in IPTI Xtracts have been extracted from published information. IPTI accepts no responsibility for the accuracy of the information or any opinions expressed in the articles.

ENGLAND

Business Rates update: What the latest relief measures mean for businesses and the wider economy

This article looks at the proposed relief for pubs and some music venues and asks how the relief will be applied and funded, and whether targeted interventions offer a long-term solution to wider problems within the Business Rates system.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://www.savills.co.uk/blog/article/394054/commercial-property/business-rates-update--what-the-latest-relief-measures-mean-for-businesses-and-the-wider-economy.aspx>

Business rates 'tinkering' is not enough say campaigners as they demand full-scale overhaul of hated levy

This article explains that business ratepayers feel that a wholesale reform of business rates is required, not just 'piecemeal reliefs'. This article reveals that ratepayers and lobbying groups are urging the Labour government to deliver on its election pledge for a major shake-up to level the playing field between their premises and online operators.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://www.thisismoney.co.uk/money/markets/article-16077671/Business-rates-tinkering-not-say-campaigners-demand-scale-overhaul-hated-levy.html>

This tax rise makes the most sense, but you might hate it

This article concludes that the only revenue raising option open to the prime minister is to increase taxes on immovable property by revaluing residential property for council tax and increasing the bands, and getting rid of stamp duty in favour of a proportional property tax.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://inews.co.uk/opinion/tax-rise-most-sense-might-hate-4728590>

The tide is turning on property tax reform

This article looks at the range of bodies making the case to the government for serious reform of the property tax system, with most favouring a replacement of council tax and stamp duty by a proportional property tax. The article looks at the problems with the two existing taxes.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://fairershare.org.uk/the-tide-is-turning-on-property-tax-reform/>

How mansion tax inspectors could get into your home and fine you £500

This article considers whether homeowners can prevent internal inspections of their homes for the proposed "mansion tax", affecting properties worth over £2m. The article looks at existing legislation on the matter and hears from the Valuation Office about their inspection policy.

International Property Tax Institute

IPTI Xtracts- The items included in IPTI Xtracts have been extracted from published information. IPTI accepts no responsibility for the accuracy of the information or any opinions expressed in the articles.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://www.thetimes.com/money/tax/article/how-mansion-tax-inspectors-could-get-into-your-home-and-fine-you-500-qwk6pommf?t=1787819816577>

Taxing times: Policies, politics, and principles

This article examines why tax reform proposals have not been adopted by looking at the problems facing the current government of funding, fairness and the future.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

<https://www.ippr.org/articles/taxing-times>

International Property Tax Institute

IPTI Xtracts- The items included in IPTI Xtracts have been extracted from published information. IPTI accepts no responsibility for the accuracy of the information or any opinions expressed in the articles.