

SafelyYou is helping families better protect loved ones

Only SafelyYou combines AI video technology with 24/7 remote clinical staff support, so residents are safer, staff is empowered to make better-informed care decisions, and families have greater peace of mind.

Fall Facts:

Those living with dementia fall an average of four times per year. Most can't tell you how they fell, which makes it hard to know what happened—and even harder to keep it from happening again. But SafelyYou real-time, AI-enabled cameras record only the events surrounding an on-the-ground event, so staff can see how a fall happened and determine its severity, preventing unnecessary ER visits, reducing costs, and helping to keep repeat falls from occurring. And SafelyYou clinical experts partner with on-site staff to help develop fall prevention strategies and create more person-centered care.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is required to turn on the camera?

The responsible party or self requires consent.

What if there is a double occupancy?

Both residents need to consent to enable the service.

Where is the camera placed?

The cameras are installed on the ceiling corner of the resident's bedroom without a field of view into the bathroom.

Is it always recording—even with visitors?

The service is always running but only video related to the detected event is retained for review by the community.

Can anyone watch the resident at any time?

No, the service is running and processed securely by the SafelyYou server, and live streaming is unavailable for staff.
