IICF Philanthropic Roundtable Gathers Insurance Leaders to Address Global Impact of Charitable Giving and Volunteer Initiatives

IICF's 10th annual Philanthropic Showcase details community support provided by the insurance industry

LOS ANGELES – April 23, 2026 – The Insurance Industry Charitable Foundation \(IICF\), a nonprofit organization dedicated to helping communities and enriching lives, today hosted the 2026 IICF Philanthropic Roundtable, gathering leaders from 26 leading insurance organizations to discuss trends and initiatives in philanthropy, volunteering and community impact. IICF released the 2025 IICF Philanthropic Showcase during the 2026 IICF Philanthropic Roundtable, sharing an annual look at the year's charitable programs, volunteer projects, innovative community initiatives and global charitable contributions of IICF Key Partner Companies.

Representatives from leading global insurance companies presented at this unique platform for philanthropic knowledge sharing, including:

- CNA (Ari Aspegren, Corporate Responsibility Consultant) – Marking the 10th anniversary of CNA's Volunteer-a-thon, employees contributed nearly 13,000 volunteer hours in 2025, supporting 552 nonprofits across 223 communities worldwide. From mentoring students to addressing food insecurity and environmental needs, CNA's embedded culture of giving generously benefited its communities.
- Crum & Forster (Noel Briordy, Director, Impact & Belonging and Mari Marques-Thomas, VP Impact & Belonging) – Addressing one of the nation's most urgent needs, Crum & Forster helped deliver 10 million meals in 2025 through its Food Security initiative. Partnerships with Feeding America and local food banks, combined with employee-driven programs, enabled more than 2,800 employees to expand community access to essential resources.
- Falvey Insurance Group (Amanda Langlais, AVP, Marketing and Seiana Barbato, Group Marketing Coordinator) – Deeply rooted in Rhode Island, Falvey supported local communities through partnerships with Hasbro Children's Hospital, Foster Forward, Operation Stand Down Rhode Island (OSDRI) and the Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RISPCA), including employee-led initiatives benefiting children, families, veterans and animals and reflecting a strong commitment to hands-on community impact.
- Marsh (Octavia Bush, Inclusion and Impact Operations Coordinator) – In 2025, 31,250 Marsh colleagues contributed more than 189,600 volunteer hours and $6.2 million (including company match) to benefit 4,934 nonprofit causes worldwide. Through initiatives spanning disaster preparedness, blood drives and efforts to combat food and housing insecurity, Marsh continues to make a meaningful impact through its community engagement.
- Munich Re (Cheryl Rosario, Head of DEI and CSR, NA) – Prioritizing building resilient communities, Munich Re focused on critical issues such as cancer awareness and research, food insecurity, and youth development. Through strategic partnerships like City of Hope, World Central Kitchen and First Tee, Munich Re made a meaningful impact in the lives of individuals and families, promoting a culture of resilience, hope and opportunity.
- Texas Mutual (Veronica Martinez, Senior Manager, Impact & Community Partnership) – Committed to strengthening Texas communities, Texas Mutual invested more than $20 million in 2025 across disaster preparedness, workforce development and health initiatives. Supporting 124 nonprofits and contributing over 1,300 volunteer hours, employees played a key role in expanding opportunity and community resilience statewide.
- The Hartford (Stefania Campbell, Philanthropy Lead) – For nearly 80 years, The Hartford has advanced fire safety education through its Junior Fire Marshal® program, reaching more than 112 million children nationwide. Through innovative partnerships and national programming, the initiative continues to equip students with lifesaving knowledge to protect their families and communities.
- USAA (Danielle Lankford, Corporate Impact Director) – Guided by a mission to serve military families nationwide, USAA expanded its advocacy efforts in 2025 with the launch of Honor Through Action™,
