

Using AI to Improve Your Communication

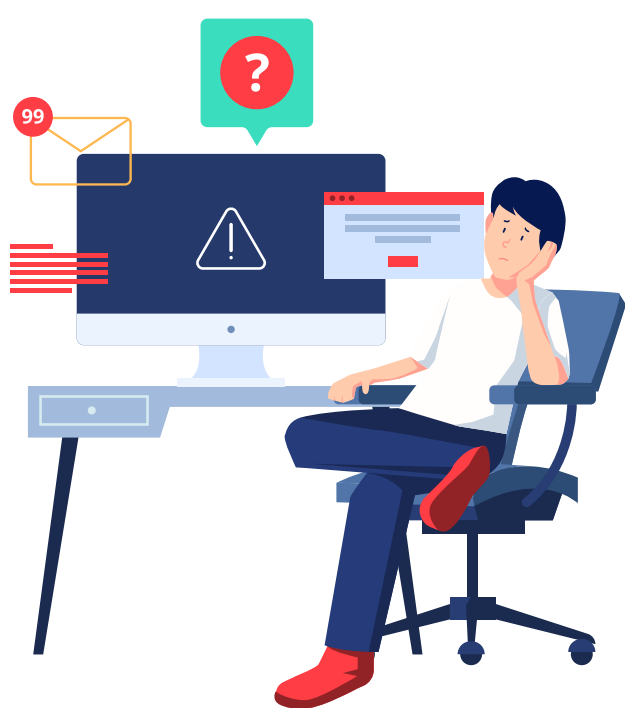

AI can help write effective emails and other professional communications, making the process more efficient and less stressful.

AI tools can quickly create drafts for various written communications, helping those who are not entirely fluent or confident in a particular language.

Utilisation of AI chatbots in customer service to handle routine inquiries enhances overall efficiency by freeing human workers for more complex tasks.

AI has potential biases, trust and transparency issues, and there is a risk of AI making errors or producing unreliable information.

The concept of "Centaur Chess" illustrates the effective combination of human skills and AI's computational power in decision-making processes.
