

BW Clearing general privacy policy.

What personal information does BW Clearing collect?

Personal information like first and last name, telephone numbers, email addresses are the most common forms of data.

BW Clearing obtains the data through a contact submission form on the website where a potential client chooses to fill out and submit with any question regarding our service. The same information may be collected over the phone or through email correspondence. Personal information obtained through the contact form, telephone, email is only used for correspondence and communication purposes only.

BW Clearing administrative teams, this can include finance and sales will have access to client information for business correspondence and communication purposes only.

Personal data used for business correspondence and communication purposes is securely protected by hardcopy locked filing systems and or password-protected and encrypted digital file systems.

BW Clearing will make appropriate general privacy policy edits to any applicable data privacy law adoptions or changes. Any changes to our privacy policy will be distributed by email to clients on file.

Regards,

Brett Woodring - Owner
BW Clearing