

4/17/2026

Commodity Alert – Onions

Current Onion Overview

The Pacific Northwest Storage Onion season is winding down due to quality. Quality will be a focus due to warmer weather in the PNW impacting the end of the Storage crop.

The Texas onion season will be transactional due to rain in the region. There has been up to 5 inches of rain, which has limited the supply.

The California desert region will begin in a light way week of 4/13/2026 and be ready for contracts week of 4/20/2026.

New Mexican supplies will begin harvesting in the coming weeks.

Freight will continue to be a driver in the market. Fuel and driver availability are expected to remain a factor this summer.