10 YEARS AS EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Welcome to Cities United's 12th Annual Convening Leading the Way: Highlighting What's Working

Every year, we gather in a new partner jurisdiction to learn, to build, and honor the work. But this year... you're here in my hometown.

In the streets that raised me. The neighborhoods that shaped my purpose. The city that taught me what it means to advocate for something bigger than yourself.

You're here in Louisville, KY - the home of Muhammad Ali. A place where greatness was born not just in the ring, but in the streets, in the struggle, and in the stand he took for justice, peace, and for Black lives.

This year also marks 10 years since I became Executive Director of Cities United.

Ten years of holding space with mayors and mothers and fathers, credible messengers and city administrators, young leaders and elders all committed to the same vision: that Black boys and young men deserve to live in safe, healthy & hopeful communities.

In that time, I've learned a lot.

I've learned that the work is hard, but the people doing it are stronger, because they are grounded in love.

I've learned that healing doesn't come from policy alone but from trust, time, and truth.

And I've learned that what we need is already in us. In our communities. In our culture. In our stories.

This convening is a reflection of all of that.

You'll hear about progress backed by data, but also pain that still needs tending.

You'll see proof of systems built to last, but also people who've carried this work on their backs without enough support.

You'll feel joy and grief, brilliance and burden, all living in the same breath because that's what it means to be real about comprehensive public safety.

This work doesn't belong to one group or city, nor will it be successful with just one strategy.

It belongs to all of us, moving together across neighborhoods, jurisdictions, and generations. So while you're here, I hope you find something more than inspiration.

I hope you find clarity. I hope you find family.

And I hope you remember that you are not alone in this work... not now, not ever.

From my city to yours, welcome to Louisville!

Let's keep leading the way.

With deep gratitude,

Anthony Smith

Executive Director, Cities United

WHAT TO EXPECT AT THIS YEAR'S CONVENING

For over a decade, Cities United has stood shoulder to shoulder with mayors, community leaders, and credible messengers working to create safe, healthy, and hopeful communities for young Black men and boys and their families. Each year, our convening becomes a mirror of what's possible when we lead together, learn together, and build together.

This year, we gather under a theme that reflects both our progress and our purpose:

LEADING THE WAY: HIGHLIGHTING WHAT'S WORKING

Across the Cities United network, jurisdictions have built comprehensive public safety ecosystems: not hypotheticals, but real strategies, real structures, and real relationships that are reducing violence and restoring trust. From school-based supports to street outreach to hospital response teams to reentry pathways, our cities are leading the way with solutions rooted in care and powered by community.

Together, we've moved beyond pilot projects into sustainable infrastructure. We've shown that public safety isn't the absence of violence, but the presence of opportunity, wellness, and joy.

At this convening, you'll see what happens when narrative, data, and culture are aligned. You'll hear from local leaders who are designing systems that last. You'll experience the collective momentum of a network rowing in the same direction - grounded in truth, driven by love, and committed to change.

As you move through the sessions, performances, and conversations, we encourage you to ask yourself: What's working in my community? How can I build on it? Who can I partner with to make it sustainable?

Because when we lead the way together, transformation is inevitable.

12TH ANNUAL CONVENING

CODE OF CONDUCT

“To build community requires vigilant awareness of the work we must continually do to undermine all the socialization that leads us to behave in ways that perpetuate domination.”

— bell hooks, Teaching Community

Cities United is committed to honoring its values of connecting, learning and leading by providing a friendly, safe, and welcoming environment for all, regardless of race, national origin, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, disability, ethnicity, or religion. We set the expectation that all participants will proactively work to create an environment free from discrimination, harassment, and sexual harassment.

We seek to create safe, healthy, and hopeful communities across the country, therefore we must be diligent in protecting our peace and joy when we gather.

This code of conduct outlines our expectations for attendees' behavior at all national, regional and local events of Cities United. We expect all participants (speakers, attendees, staff, and other guests) to abide by this code of conduct at all event venues and event-related social functions.

Behavior that is expected and encouraged:

- Be respectful, inclusive, and accepting of others. Actively seek to challenge your personal biases, assumptions, and preconceived stereotypes. Approach differences with openness and curiosity.
- Be conscious of how your words and actions might harm others (even unintentionally). Be mindful of impact, as well as intent.
- Be aware of privilege and power dynamics. If you find you are talking or commenting a lot, consider stepping back to leave more space for others. If you share the work or ideas of others, give credit where it is due.
- Be considerate of privacy and personal boundaries. Convenings can be a lot, give others a chance to “opt-in” to personal interactions, and respect boundaries when they are set.
- Be constructive in offering criticism, and be gracious in accepting it. Consider “calling in” rather than “calling out,” and direct critiques toward ideas rather than people.

Behavior that is strictly prohibited:

- Discrimination, including unfavorable or disparate treatment to others because of any aspect of their identity, appearance, or protected class.
- Harassment and harassing behavior, including use of epithets and slurs, derogatory or hostile comments, repeated attempts to make contact, or any behavior that interferes with another person's participation in the Convening.
- Sexual harassment, including use of sexual images, jokes of a sexual or gendered nature, or any unwelcome contact of a sexual nature in any medium.
- Sexually harassing conduct in particular may include all of these prohibited actions, as well as other unwelcome conduct, such as requests for sexual favors, conversation containing sexual comments, physical contact, lewd or offensive behavior or language, and other unwelcome sexual advances. Sexually harassing conduct can be by a person of either the same or opposite sex.

If you are experiencing prohibited behavior, notice that someone else is experiencing prohibited behavior, or have any other concerns, please contact a member of Cities United or Convening Staff immediately. Convening Staff can be identified as they have a gold badge that reads "STAFF" on their event badges.

If you experience or witness a violation of this Code of Conduct, please submit a report using the Whova App, QR code below, or email convening@citiesunited.org.

INFRASTRUCTURE FOR A SAFE, HEALTHY, AND HOPEFUL FUTURE

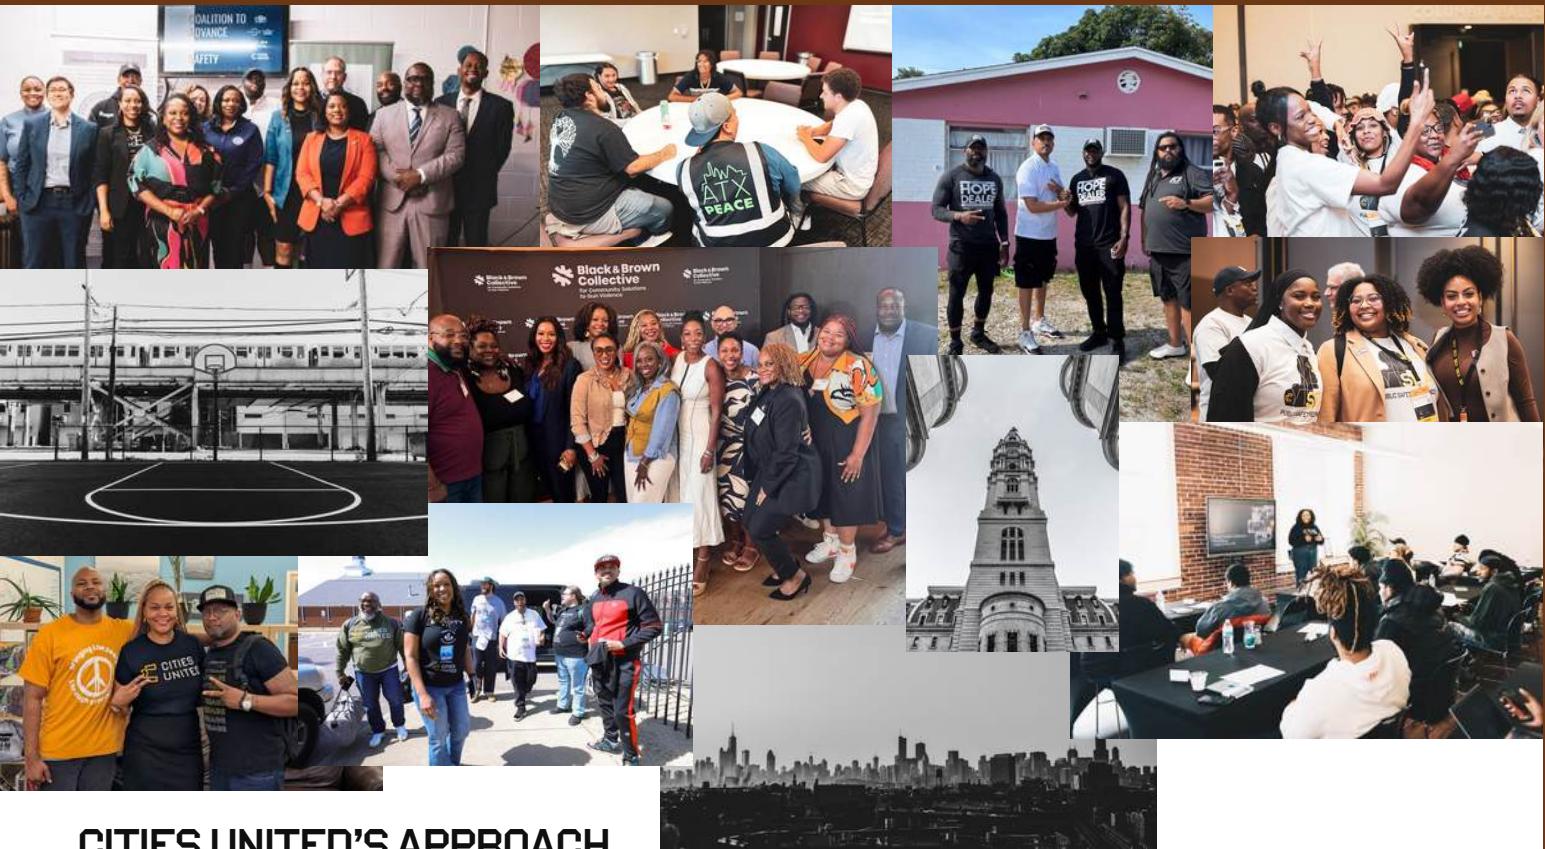

Across the country, communities continue to grapple with the urgency of violence, the fatigue of underinvestment, and the need for a coordinated response rooted in care. Mayors are asking for solutions. Residents are demanding accountability. And young people are searching for hope and safety.

In this moment, Cities United has answered with presence, precision, and partnership. Over the last year, we've delivered more than 800 hours of coaching and technical assistance to 35 jurisdictions, walking alongside local leaders to strengthen systems and strategies. Through our Leading the Way Tour, we've invested $2.4 million into jurisdictions working to redefine public safety on their terms. Our engagements have equipped cities, counties and states with roadmaps, narrative tools, and frameworks to move from intention to implementation.

Along the way, we've convened thousands (virtually and in-person) through ecosystem meetings, strategy planning labs, advocacy trainings, and national learning sessions that reached over 675 unique communities. We've watched safety plans be completed, young leaders step into governance roles, and jurisdictions begin to coordinate crisis response systems that prioritize prevention, not punishment.

We are laying the groundwork for cities to build sustainable, community-led ecosystems that keep young Black men and boys and their families safe, healthy, and hopeful. We are helping the field not only hold the weight of this moment, but carry it forward with strategy, support, and shared accountability.

As we gather at this convening, we honor the work already done and recommit to what's next: a national movement of jurisdictions, and individuals equipped to lead, ready to change, and deeply rooted in the communities they serve.

LEADING THE WAY TOUR

A MIDWAY REFLECTION ON PRESENCE, PARTNERSHIP, AND PROGRESS

Launched in Spring 2025, Cities United's Leading the Way Tour is a national investment in the people, partnerships, and policies reshaping what public safety looks like in Black communities. At a time when many cities are under pressure to “respond” rather than reimagine, this tour creates space to listen deeply, partner locally, and build nationally—ensuring the most impacted communities are not just at the table but shaping the blueprint.

EACH TOUR STOP PROVIDES

- Coaching & Capacity-Building through tools like the Roadmap to Safe and Healthy Communities and Public Safety Redefined framework
- Investment in Local Leadership, including $40,000 in community grants per site and stipends for youth leaders
- Narrative Support & Media Framing to challenge outdated ideas of safety and uplift local innovation
- Cross-Sector Collaboration between community leaders, young people, government officials, and national partners
- Real-Time Responsiveness to crises and opportunities as they arise on the ground

WHY IT MATTERS NOW

The need for this tour has been repeatedly, urgently affirmed by the pulse on the ground in this climate

APRIL 22 – TRAVIS COUNTY, TX

During the Austin stop, federal CVIPI funding cuts were announced. Within hours, Cities United coordinated partners and helped launch Protect CVI, a national campaign defending frontline organizations and life-saving infrastructure.

SEPTEMBER – MEMPHIS, TN

As agencies deployed amid crime spikes, Cities United stood with local mayors and partners to host Know Your Rights trainings—proving that trusted presence and coordination shift the narrative when crisis hits.

These moments show what the tour is built to do: be present, be useful, and build capacity that lasts.

LEADING THE WAY TOUR: BY THE NUMBERS	120+ Partners Engaged	$110K+ Community Partner Investments
11 Local Storytellers Engaged	152 Young Leaders Engaged	$76K Young Leader Compensation
1,300+ Participants	121 Local Officials	$67K Paid to Local Black Vendors

LEARNING, IMPACT, AND WHAT'S NEXT

POTENTIAL IMPACT

1.7M BLACK RESIDENTS
& 256K YOUNG BLACK
MEN AND BOYS
AGES 18–24.

These numbers reflect the communities served by the 11 jurisdictions participating in Cities United's 2025 Leading the Way Tour. While our work does not directly reach every individual, it strengthens the ecosystems that shape their lives — from local public safety plans and community partnerships to youth leadership and capacity-building. Together, these cities and counties are creating safer, healthier, and more hopeful futures for Black families and the broader communities they represent.

BUILDING LOCAL CAPACITY: WHAT'S WORKING

- Presence Builds Credibility – National support elevates local efforts.
- Momentum Needs Anchors – Grassroots energy must translate into infrastructure.
- Coaching Strengthens Follow-Through – Tailored support turns ideas into implementation.
- Shared Tools Create Alignment – Frameworks give cities a common language for progress.
- Networks Expand What's Possible – Connections help cities access funders and platforms.

INVESTING IN YOUNG LEADERS

This year, more than 55 Leading the Way Young Leaders from across the country will join us at the Cities United Convening in Louisville. Their participation is evidence of the tour's commitment to building the next generation of civic leadership. These young leaders are central actors in transforming how cities define and deliver safety.

WHAT'S NEXT: FIVE CROSS-CUTTING PRIORITIES

1. Building Strong & Sustainable Governance
2. Creating Real Pathways for Young Leaders
3. Centering Survivor & Family Voices
4. Strengthening Data Capacity & Accountability
5. Building Narrative Power & Political Will

These themes, along with detailed post-tour reports and recommendations, will dictate the coaching that Cities United's team members provide to each jurisdiction, recognizing local priorities and dynamics will help to guide the process appropriately.

“Our young people have solutions, our young people have ideas, and our young people want to be involved.”
— Allegheny County Ecosystem Partner

A FRAMEWORK FOR SAFE, HEALTHY, AND HOPEFUL COMMUNITIES

Cities United's Public Safety Redefined is a framework for moving beyond punishment and crisis response toward a comprehensive public safety ecosystem rooted in equity, healing, and opportunity. It centers young Black men and boys, their families, and communities, offering jurisdictions strategies built that last.

PUBLIC SAFETY REDEFINED

noun / verb phrase

noun — A community-rooted framework that shifts the meaning of safety from punishment and surveillance to healing, equity, and opportunity. Unlike traditional models centered on policing and control, Public Safety Redefined invests in families, schools, health, housing, and local leadership as the true foundations of peace.

verb phrase — The active process of transforming how cities, systems, and communities imagine and build safety by centering the brilliance of young Black men and boys, dismantling inequities, and sustaining ecosystems that prevent harm before it occurs.

Usage in a sentence:

“When our elected and appointed officials committed to Public Safety Redefined, the jurisdiction began funding initiatives to interrupt the cycle of violence, and family supports instead of more jail beds.”

“Residents are redefining public safety by organizing for housing, education, and economic justice alongside violence prevention programs.”

Note: Public Safety Redefined is not a program or slogan. It is a governing philosophy and collective practice. It is both a vision (what safety should mean) and a verb (what we do daily to build it).

FULLY IMPLEMENTED STRATEGY

Real change comes when all elements are connected, coordinated, and sustained. This requires:

- Political & Public Will Aligned
- Comprehensive Public Safety Strategy
- Cross-Sector Collaboration
- Young Leaders Fully Engaged & Guiding Efforts
- Jurisdiction Office that Focuses on Reducing Community Violence

ROADMAP

The Roadmap is Cities United's step-by-step process for helping cities bring Public Safety Redefined to life. The Roadmap describes the journey for getting to the vision of Public Safety Redefined. It guides jurisdictions through learning, planning, implementing, and sustaining strategies across the ecosystem, ensuring that ideas become coordinated action and lasting change.

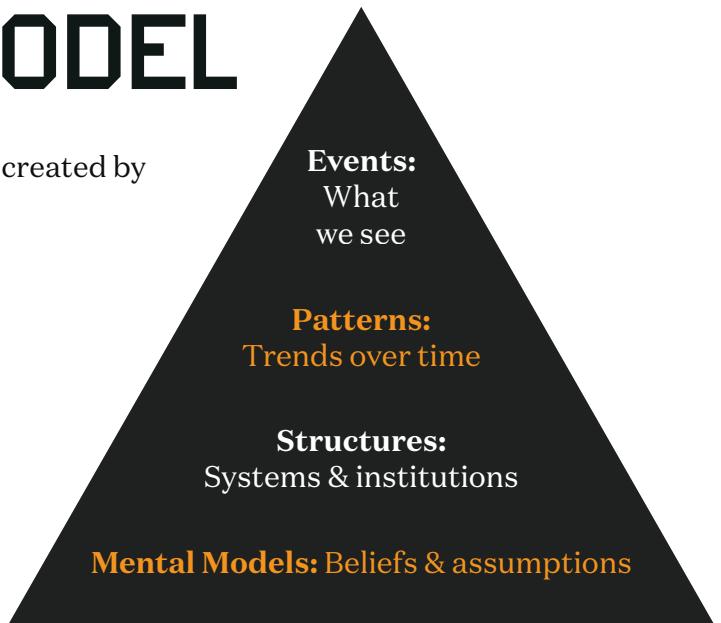

THE ICEBERG MODEL

A systems thinking tool to look beneath the surface created by Michael Goodman

WHY IT MATTERS:

The Iceberg Model helps us move from reacting to single events → to transforming the deeper patterns, structures, and beliefs that shape them.

It shifts public safety from reaction to redefinition—building conditions for safe, healthy, and hopeful communities
