

Provider Tip of the Week

October 12, 2022

Hearing Multiple Languages in the Home

Research shows that being exposed to multiple languages in the home can improve children's executive function skills, like attention, inhibitory control and cognitive flexibility. Plus, speaking in their native language can allow caregivers to express their full range of thought and emotion.

Watch this video
for an example