

WHERE ARE YOUR FAMILY PHOTOS?

PLP DECORATING GUIDE

WELCOME

As a mother first and a photographer second, I understand the importance of your family photo session. From the scheduling, outfit planning and getting everyone on board, it's no small task! So why do you leave your gorgeous images stuck on a USB, CD or even a floppy disc never to be seen again?

I get it, picking your style, canvas or frames and integrating it into your home can be overwhelming. It's a big part of what I walk my clients through as part of each session with me. As a sneak peak into the PLP experience, I've prepared some inspiration on how to decorate your home with the images of the people that mean the most to you. Enjoy!

STYLE 1

MODERN B&W

Black and white photography compliments any space, wall color, style and will be timeless artwork you can grow with in any home. Studio sessions with seamless, one-color backgrounds make a perfect session choice for this effect. Pair it with a simple black frame, canvas or print it on metal for even more modern flair.

...And transform it into awe-worthy artwork

STYLE 2

CLASSIC COLOR

Color images look best on bright, clean walls. This way there is no competition between the color of the wall and the images you are showcasing. If you are having your artwork framed, make sure your photographer offers custom framing. They can then help you pick the best frame to compliment your images. If framing isn't your thing, you can always opt for canvas for a clean, seamless finish.

...But big beautiful artwork makes the best statement piece

STYLE 3

GALLERY WALL

You don't need to be an art director to create your own personal home gallery. If you have photos from multiple years or sessions (or plan to have them) this could be the perfect option for you. Combine black and white along with color to create your own session story, add a new image each year to track your families growth or play with the layout to refresh your space.

...A gallery wall celebrates all those memories - and you won't misplace them in a pocket or backpack.

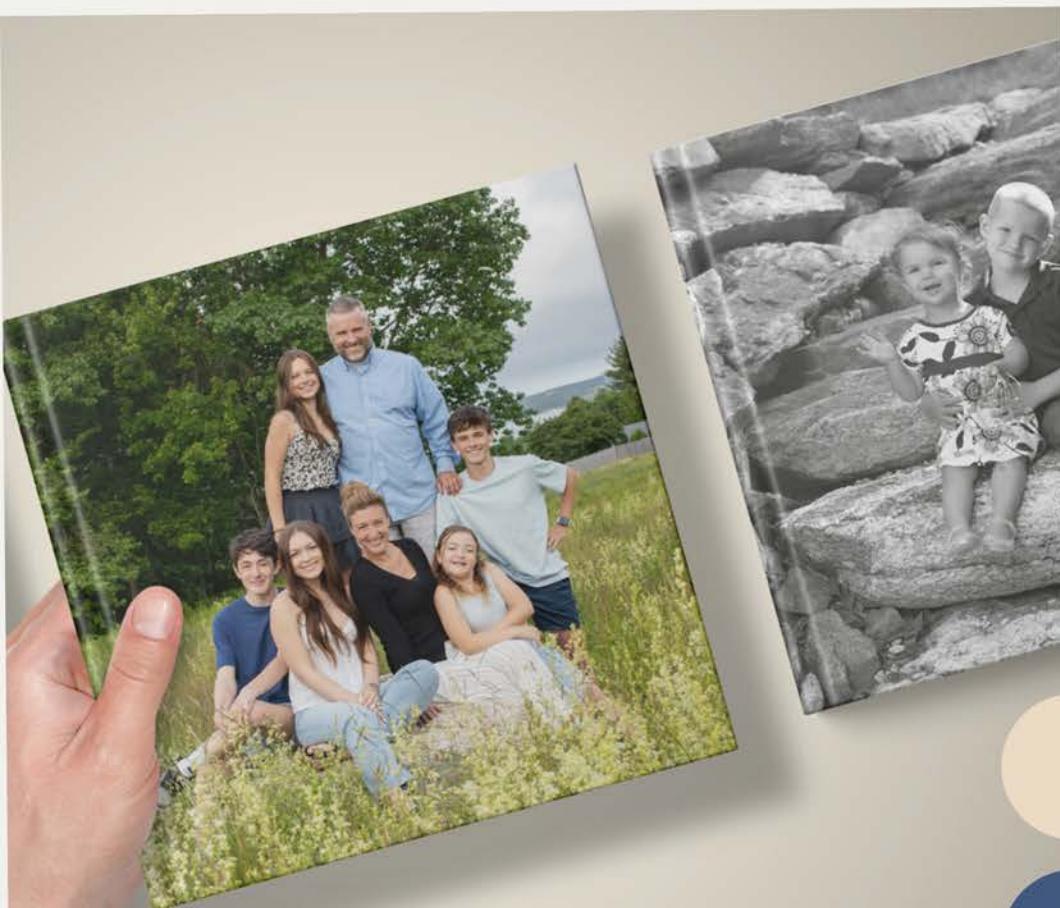

I love Polaroids as keepsakes but they can be a little too easy to lose...

STYLE 4

IF YOU HAVE NO WALL SPACE

While I don't find this to be a common issue, if you already have plenty of artwork hanging on your walls, or are picky about what goes up on them you're not alone! I always present an album option to my clients because they are easy to store, display and can hold your entire session of images in one perfect bespoke package.

Albums are the perfect keepsake. Better still, they won't just suddenly stop working or get lost in a junk drawer!

You can break free from your digitals! Because if we're being honest, when was the last time you looked at that old CD?

QUESTIONS?

If you are curious about the PLP experiences, products or how to transform your digitals into artwork I would love to hear from you!
