

FULLY CONNECTED 26 LONDON

November 4–5, 2026
Convene Sancroft,
St Paul's, London

SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

What is Fully Connected London 2026?

Fully Connected London 2026: Built for AI is built for the people actually doing the work — shipping models, scaling infrastructure, and closing the gap between what AI promises and what production demands.

Two packed days of real talk from real practitioners: the engineers, platform leads, researchers, and CTOs running AI at actual scale.

It all happens November 4 and 5 at Convene Sancroft, St Paul's, London

HERE'S WHAT THAT LOOKS LIKE:

1. Learn from industry leaders sharing real-world use cases, best practices from infrastructure to agents, and technical depth on the latest product innovation.
2. Train in hands-on environments built for production — test ideas, iterate fast, and leave with concepts ready to scale.
3. Connect with peers, customers, and operators solving the same challenges you face every day.
4. Discover the full AI ecosystem, from the latest models and tools to the infrastructure powering production workloads.
5. Get inspired by keynotes on strategy, vision, and real-world execution — and close the gap between executive expectations and technical reality.
6. Celebrate the community of builders, partners, and practitioners moving AI from hype to production — whether you're training foundation models, deploying agents at scale, or connecting with the pioneers defining the next era of agentic AI, Fully Connected London 2026 is built for you.

Building on the momentum of Fully Connected London 2025

CoreWeave's upcoming user conference builds on the momentum of Weights & Biases' Fully Connected London — one of the AI community's most respected practitioner events. Last year's Fully Connected drew 800+ attendees across a 30/70 executive-to-technical split, with speakers from GSK, Wayve, Shell, NVIDIA, Mistral, and participants from organisations such as HSBC, Novo Nordisk, Expedia, BT Group, Graphcore, and Siemens Engineering.

CoreWeave is expanding on that foundation — convening the builders, platform engineers, and AI leaders actively shaping how next-generation infrastructure is designed, deployed, and scaled. This is where the people who train the models meet the people who power them.

Why sponsor Fully Connected London 2026?

Fully Connected London 2026 is where the AI ecosystem converges. CoreWeave's flagship conference brings together the researchers, engineers, enterprise leaders, and builders who are defining the next era of AI — not observers, but the pioneers actively training, deploying, and scaling the world's most ambitious models.

Sponsoring Fully Connected London 2026 puts your brand at the centre of that community: direct access to the technical decision-makers, infrastructure buyers, and AI innovators who move fast and build at scale. This is not a general tech conference. It is the gathering point for the people who demand the most from AI infrastructure — and who are already choosing the tools and partners that will shape the industry for years to come.

Sponsoring Fully Connected London 2026 is an investment in the relationships that matter most, at the moment they matter most.
