

The Seven Mountain Mandate

C. Peter Wagner

“On September 24, 2001, I dreamed the following: I was standing looking at a huge lake. The lake was covered with a coat of thin ice. A puzzle piece would drop from Heaven and I would walk out upon the icy lake and put the piece in place. Before long, I recognized the puzzle that was covering the lake was a map of the United States. I finally laid the last piece of the puzzle in place. It was the state of New Mexico. Once I did that, it was as if I ascended three levels into the heavens. The best way to describe this ascension was a staircase that would go up. At each floor there was a meeting room where I would watch a counsel convening and discussing their plans. I would then walk up to the next level. These meetings were governmental type meetings. I would watch these meetings as they occurred.... One questionable assumption is that Allah is just another name for the true God.... Allah is a high-ranking demonic spirit who has come to steal, to kill, and to destroy. As long as Iraqi people worship him, he has legal right to accomplish his vile purposes in their nation. Political correctness may attempt to deny this spiritual reality, but it only plays into the hands of the evil principalities and powers over Babylon. Intercessors need to recognize that in the invisible world this is a clash of kingdoms. The question is: Who will rule? The kingdom of darkness or the Kingdom of Light? "E. Pluribus Unum" has not worked in Iraq, just like it could not work in Yugoslavia. Why, then, did it work in America? It worked because the 13 colonies agreed on a common enemy. They overthrew the enemy from the ground up, not by the will of outside forces. They had strong indigenous leadership such as Washington and Jefferson. They agreed on a national ideology through the Federalist Papers, largely written by Alexander Hamilton. Most of all, they enjoyed the blessing of God. Not all were Christian believers, but none of the founders of America, as far as we know, openly worshiped a false god such as Allah. This cleared the Heavens for the work of the prophetic intercessors and the leaders of the Church and allowed the United States to be established and to succeed.”

How do the ideas of Spiritual Warfare inform Wagner's attitude to American foreign policy?

Lance Wallnau

"I went to hear Donald Trump in 2015, and when I came home I distinctly heard — and I'm not one of those people that's always hearing God's voice, so it stuck out to me — all that I heard the Lord say is, Donald Trump is a wrecking ball to the spirit of political correctness... I heard the Lord say Isaiah 45 will be the 45th president. And the Bible says try the spirit, so I didn't go to the Bible, I went to Google... Barack Obama's 44, and I said, well wait a second, elected twice — well he keeps the same jersey, so it's still 44 — and I said, oh my gosh, the next president is 45th. Right then I flipped it open: 'thus says the Lord to Cyrus whom I have anointed'... 'to break open the two-leaf gates of Babylon.' But I had just met Trump, and I'll be honest with you, we had a lot of great conservatives at that time running... and I wasn't so sure that Donald Trump was an Evangelical. He's saying he's a Christian, but I'm saying I don't know — twice married, Casino operator, art of the deal... so I didn't know. But then I read on in this 45th chapter, it says... 'though you have not known me I have anointed you for Israel's sake.' And when I saw that 'though you have not known me' I circled it and I said, my God this is crazy theology — God's bringing in a heathen ruler with his anointing who doesn't yet know him, but God's hand is on him. And then I read on, 'verily thou art a God that hides thyself,' and I said, dear God, you have hidden this — you have hidden your hand in this unusual man. From that moment on I said, this guy's going to go the distance, he'll beat all 15, he'll go all the way to the White House... Big Hollywood, big media, big Academia, and big government are all in the same place — progressives have permeated the gates of influence in those four mind-molders of influence. So what is happening is, Trump simply does not play by their rule book, and so he's scrambling the game. The wrecking ball is hitting media... he's up against the Hollywood system. I believe that God's using him to destabilize these progressive institutions... so that believers and other viewpoints can go into them and establish credibility."

How does the Cyrus comparison with Donald Trump echo the Manifest Children of God theology?

Dutch Sheets

“God needs America positioned properly to play a role in the coming revival. [Trump] needs to be in this position for four more years so that the antichrist forces in America — those that don't want a Christian America... must not gain power. There is an attempt to take over this nation... turning this nation into an anti-christ, un-Christian nation that is not governed based on biblical principles... This is what the ecclesia does. We not only petition but we rule, we command for Him... We are His governmental voice in the earth. We bind, we loose, we enforce His will through prayer and spiritual authority. We do not turn it over to man, or to human institutions. Do not give this back to humans. We are in a war. God has said prophetically [Trump] will have eight years, so we don't give this up now. Man does not decide this, God decides this. God will decide this outcome through the church.”

Does this sort of rhetoric signal a return to the Divine Right of Kings?

Doug Wilson

"The driving force is the question: 'Can human societies govern themselves without reference to the transcendent?' And I believe the returns on that question are clearly in: Secularism doesn't work. Neutrality does not work. There is no neutrality. We need to govern ourselves with reference to the transcendental reality that is God in Christ. I believe in the continuing validity of the first table of the law. If someone says, 'Do you want to see blasphemy eradicated? Do you want to see limitations on blasphemy and restrictions on blasphemy?' Yes, I do very much, and I do think that should be something that is done constitutionally and via the law. Constitutionally, we should labor over the course of some centuries to keep the state from blaspheming. I believe that in the Anglosphere we are in covenant with God at a national level. And I think specifically the covenant is the Solemn League and Covenant. The Solemn League and Covenant bound Scotland, England, and Ireland in perpetuity. The covenant was made in perpetuity. Not only that, but in the restoration when Charles II was brought back after Cromwell, one of the terms of him having the throne restored to him was that he had to subscribe to the Solemn League and Covenant again. Which of course he disregarded and disobeyed, but that's what he subscribed to. I would say that the United Kingdom and then the Commonwealth— Canada, Australia, and places like that—are still under a covenantal obligation to God. And I would say America, by an oblique argument still is under a covenantal obligation because our colonies that formed our nation were under that.

Can we draw a straight line from the Solemn League and Covenant to Doug Wilson?
