ANCORE HEALTH AND CLEAR HARBOR ADVISORS PARTNER TO DELIVER OPERATIONS-INFORMED TECHNOLOGY STRATEGY SERVICES FOR HIGH-PERFORMING MEDICAL GROUPS

Brentwood, Tenn. — December 4, 2025 — Ancore Health (“Ancore”) and Clear Harbor Advisors (“Clear Harbor”) have announced a strategic partnership designed to bridge the gap between healthcare operations and technology strategy. Together, the firms will help medical groups design and implement operations-informed technology strategies that drive operational alignment and financial sustainability and reduce technical debt oftentimes related to misalignment between operations and IT. AI strategy and deployment is a great example in today’s environment.

The partnership combines Ancore’s expertise in building high-performing medical groups with Clear Harbor’s deep experience in data architecture, analytics, and AI innovation. Over the last several years large multi-specialty groups have trusted Ancore and Clear Harbor to function as an outsourced analytics partner. This collaboration will also advance a joint Snowflake-native analytics platform to deliver rapid, turnkey insights that improve performance and accelerate digital transformation for value-based care organizations.

“This partnership helps healthcare organizations close the gap between operational needs and technology strategy,” said Eric Passon, CEO of Ancore Health. “Together, we’re enabling medical groups to sustain high-performance by building practical, data-driven strategies that ensure our clients can rapidly adapt to changing market dynamics.”

“By connecting business context with modern technology,” added Dan Iantorno, CEO at Clear Harbor Advisors, “we’re helping clients modernize faster, with pragmatic solutions that reflect their operational and budgetary realities.”
